K SAYS SUMMIT FALL OR WINTER

MOSCOW (UPI)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev said in a speech released today that an East-West summit meeting "may apparently" take place this autumn or winter.

Khrushchev made his remarks Tuesday in Vladivostok where he stopped on his way back from a Peking meeting with Communist Chinese leaders.

According to the official Soviet News Agency Tass, Khrushchev said "the summit meeting which may apparently be called this autumn or winter, will continue the exchange of views on problems agitating the peoples."

"Everything must be done to establish lasting peace," the Soviet premier said.

STILL BEYOND MOON

Has Lunik Gone Astray?

MOSCOW (AP)—Russia's Lunik soared 78,750 miles beyond the moon today and is expected to keep going three more days before starting its return toward earth, Tass reported tonight.

WOUNDED

Premier Abdel Karim Kassem of Iraq was shot and slightly wounded by a would-be assassin today, according to a report on the Baghdad radio heard in London. His condition was reported as "good." The report said the attempt on Kassem's life came while he was driving through a Baghdad street. He was hit in shoulder.

300 Rescued As Flames Sweep Pier

SOUTHEAST, Eng. (AP)—River boats tonight picked up nearly 300 terrified vacationers marooned by fire on the world's longest pier.

The holiday-makers were trapped at the pier head when flames swept through a wooden dance pavilion near the shore.

Many in bright summer clothes escaped by climbing down the pier stanchions to waiting boats.

For 90 minutes seven fire brigades pumped seawater on to the leaping flames, eventually getting them under control. The fire also blazed through the pier's miniature railway depot and the stores beneath it.

Southeast Pier is 1½ miles long and the entertainment hub of this resort standing on the estuary of the Thames.

Earlier, Russian announcements had given the impression that Lunik III had completed its turn around the moon and was heading back to earth.

This raised some speculation that the rocket might overshoot its predicted orbit.

Today, the official Soviet news agency said the instrument-examined satellite is expected to reach a maximum distance of 291,870 miles from the earth before turning back.

"Thereafter the interplanetary station will begin moving toward the earth and will pass by our planet on Oct. 18, moving from north to south," the announcement said.

The shortest distance from the earth's surface will be about 40,000 kilometres (24,840 miles).

There was still no word on what the flying laboratory observed on the face of the moon never seen by man.

A Soviet announcement Tuesday night said the cosmic rocket reached a point 4,379 miles from the moon at 6:16 a.m. PST Tuesday and then "kept its movement turning around the moon."

By noon, the announcement continued, the rocket was 9,320 miles from the moon's surface and continuing "on its pre-determined orbit." This was supposed to take it on around the moon and into a long oval orbit around the earth.

At that time, the Russians said, the Lunik was 230,925 miles from the earth, over the Atlantic.

The apparatus of the solar batteries and the chemical sources for supplying energy are functioning normally, the announcement added.

Russian scientists kept check on the Lunik with an intricate system of radio listening posts and computing centres.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

O Thou in Whom we live and move and have our being, Who hast taught us that we are most truly free when we lose our wills in Thine, help us to gain this liberty by surrender unto Thee. We offer and present unto Thee our souls and our bodies, our thoughts and our desires, our words and our deeds, to be a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto Thee, which is our reasonable service; through Jesus Christ, our Lord, Amen.

'Told to Lie' in Probe Of Rigged Quiz Show

ALFRED DAVIS
It's a fix

WASHINGTON (AP)—A public relations consultant for producers of the TV quiz program Twenty-One testified today the show was rigged and said he was advised to lie to investigators.

Alfred Davis said a lawyer advised his public relations firm not to tell the truth to New York authorities investigating charges that contestants were given questions and answers in advance.

Davis identified the lawyer as Edwin Slotnick, New York.

In effect, Davis said his firm and Barry and Enright Incorporated, owners of the quiz program, had deceived the National Broadcasting Company by not telling it the truth. NBC was the network that carried Twenty-One, one of the biggest quiz shows until it collapsed last year after charges it was rigged.

Davis was the first witness on the second day of an inquiry by the House of Representatives legislative oversight subcommittee into quiz-show scandals.

Under questioning, Davis said Slotnick had advised him to get out of town after authorities began looking into the charges against the program.

"Where did he advise you to go," asked Robert W. Lishman, subcommittee counsel.

"As far away as possible," Davis replied.

Called as the windup witness on Twenty-One was Richard Jackman, a former contestant who is said to have told a New York grand jury the show was crooked. Jackman is an organizer for the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union.

The House subcommittee on legislative oversight then planned to turn its spotlight on another TV quiz, Dotto, the first of the shows to collapse under fraud charges. This started a chain of events that brought to an end the era of huge money prizes and strained, sweating faces peering out of isolation booths.

DOUBLECROSSED

The story of a contestant's doublecross was unfolded Tuesday by James Snodgrass, a 37-year-old New York art-

Close Vote Seen In 50 Key Seats

FINAL RESULTS KNOWN FRIDAY

LONDON (CP)—Polls close at 9 p.m. GMT (1 p.m. PST) Thursday in Britain's general election.

The final results from about 350 of the 600 constituencies will be known by 8 p.m. PST.

In rural districts where it takes longer to get the ballot boxes to the central counting place, tabulation of the votes begins Friday at 10 a.m. and continues until 5 p.m.

The latest public opinion poll showed 8½ per cent of the voters in 50 key districts in the "don't know" or "won't tell" column.

Even the leaders of the two major parties were eager about predicting the results of Thursday's election.

The weather seemed uncertain, with rain forecast in the west, and sun for the east.

TORY LEAD

Prime Minister Macmillan's Conservative party, seeking a third term in control of the government, could draw encouragement from the latest Daily Telegraph poll, which gave it a 2½ per cent lead over Labor in 50 key constituencies.

According to the poll, the Conservatives had 42½ per cent of the electorate, while Labor was 40 per cent sewed up.

Other recent polls have shown the two main parties racing neck-and-neck with up to the fifth of those questioned among the "don't knows." Britain has 35,400,000 eligible voters.

In 1955 the Conservatives won a 52-seat majority in the 630-seat House of Commons. The Liberals held six seats.

DELICATE BALANCE

"The election is so delicately poised that either the Conservatives or Labor could win," said The Times. "And the side that fails to vote at full strength will almost certainly lose."

The major parties wound up their campaigns on the airwaves Tuesday night as party leaders took to radio and television in a last-minute sales pitch.

Macmillan told viewers on Britain's two television channels they were "trustees" and not "owners" of the nation's destiny.

He spoke of Conservative gains—a solvent nation, 1,000,000 more people working today than in 1951, and old-age pensions that kept pace with rising living costs.

"We have got rid of socialism," he said. "Don't let it come back. Let us go right ahead for advancement all along the line over the next five years."

CAN AFFORD MORE

Labor leader Hugh Gaitskill in a radio address told voters Britain could well afford higher old-age pensions and a bigger investment in education.

"With prosperity, we can really afford this cost," he said. "In any great industrial nation like ours, the wealth of the country should be growing year by year."

"Can we really tolerate going on as we have been with other countries racing ahead with faster economic development and Britain left behind?"

Despite the wariness of party chiefs and the poll-takers, the Conservatives today were the hottest election betting favorites since the war.

One big bookmaker would offer only 4 to 11 against a Conservative victory, meaning the better bet to put up $11 to possibly win $4. Tuesday the price was 4 to 10.

The odds against the Labor party went up from 2 to 1 to 3 to 4.

MARIO LANZA

LANZA ONLY 38

'Golden Voice' Dies

(Times News Services)
ROME — Tenor Mario Lanza, the one-time piano mover who became one of the great singing stars in movie history, died of a heart attack here today.

He was 38. For some time his heart had been giving him trouble, but only those friends knew of the ailment. Recently his condition had been complicated by phlebitis, blood clots in the leg.

Lanza became famous for his starring role in the motion picture The Great Caruso, which grossed one of the highest amounts of any musical.

Born in Philadelphia, his real name was Alfredo Arnold Cocozza. He later adopted his mother's name of Lanza for professional use.

'GREATEST VOICE'

The late Italian conductor Arturo Toscanini once said that Lanza possessed "the greatest voice of the 20th century."

Lanza two years ago undertook a new movie career in Europe after several years of controversial activity in the United States.

After vaulting to fame with The Great Caruso, he earned $1,100,000 in one year, more than half of it in photograph records. In 1952 he was about the hottest thing in U.S. show business.

Two years later he was in debt to the U.S. government and having a hard time finding bookings. One of the reasons was that he got too fat for romantic parts.

"He was a sick man," his friend Irving Aronson said of the period, in which Lanza ballooned in size, failed to fill a Las Vegas engagement and was accused of breaking a Hollywood movie contract.

After coming to Rome, and bringing his weight down to 184 pounds from 240, Lanza said he had recovered from an "unhappy episode."

He went on to make several pictures here, including The Seven Hills of Rome.

There had been years in which he worked hard, played hard and sang every song as though it would be his last. Of his voice he often said:

"It is a gift of God. I cannot take credit for it; it merely passes through me."

Dame Fortune Smiled on Lopez

BY DOUG PEDEN
Times Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — The sun has always been kind to the citizens of Los Angeles county.

It endows them richly with oranges and avocados, makes patio swimming pools worth while and keeps their movie stars eternally tanned all year round.

As if that wasn't enough, Old Sol almost made their beloved Dodgers baseball champions of the world Tuesday afternoon and the fact that the Dodgers Tuesday night were flying high toward Chicago instead of flying high on champagne is a tribute to the skill and courage of the Sox from Chicago's south side.

Although the go-go Sox weren't trying to go anywhere against Johnny Roseboro's arm and discarded white stockings for the black ones they used during the regular season, the Los Angeles fans finally saw the White Sox play like the White Sox.

Another record crowd of baseball addicts, this time the total was 92,706, crowded into huge Memorial Coliseum, hoping to see the Dodgers nail down California's first world series crown.

Instead they marvelled at the Sox, maestros of defence and responding like perfect puppets when Al Lopez pulled the managerial strings, performed in the fashion which made them famous, clipping the Dodgers, 1-0, to force the best-of-seven classic to a sixth game.

'GOING TO WIN' SOX WAR CRY

CHICAGO (AP)—The underdog Chicago White Sox, their flagging hopes revived, flew back home today for a last-ditch stand against Los Angeles Dodgers for baseball's biggest prize.

"We're going to win this thing now," Manager Al Lopez boomed after his American League champions defeated the Dodgers 1-0 in Los Angeles Tuesday.

Thus this baseball-wacky city was denied a spontaneous victory celebration. If it finally stages such festivities they could be more subdued since the Dodgers, now holding a 3-2 series lead, must finish up the current classic in Chicago's Comiskey Park, starting Thursday.

The Hollywood movie factories are not far from the Coliseum and it might have been suspected that a film script-writer had conjured up the action in the third and fourth

WHAT WELL-FED YANK SHOULD KNOW

Our Diet: Spuds and Syrup

EDMONTON (CP)—Canada's basic diet is "potatoes, home-made bread and maple syrup," according to a current United States publication now on sale in Canadian bookstores.

For westerners, it adds wild game, including bear and venison, as an "important part" of daily fare.

Postmaster-General William Hamilton quoted from the paperback edition of Round-the-World Cookbook by Myra Waldo, published in 1937, in an address to the Canadian Tourist Association annual meeting.

Mr. Hamilton said it contained this description of Canadian food habits:

"The basic items of Canadian diet are few and simple: Potatoes, home-made bread and maple syrup. Canadians are exceedingly fond of potatoes, and they eat enormous quantities of them prepared in countless ways. . . . The national sweet tooth inclines toward maple syrup and large amounts of it are used for sweetening practically everything."

"But there is much more to Canadian food: Such specialties as the famous Canadian pea soup, the locally made cheeses and ales, tourtiere meat pie, and grand-peres, a maple syrup dessert."

"In the western part of the nation, game, such as venison, rabbit, bear, duck and geese, plays an important part in the diet."

Mr. Hamilton said he hopes that by 1967 private and public co-operation will have developed Canada's tourist industry so well that Americans will recognize the quotation as "more than slightly out of date."

Siamese Twins Live After Separation

PORTLAND (AP) — The Stubblefield Siamese twins made slight improvement overnight after being separated in a delicate operation, a University of Oregon medical school spokesman said today.

"Their color also is good, and all bleeding has stopped from the operation," said the spokesman, Joseph J. Adams, medical school public relations director.

"Their chances appear much better now," he added.

Doctors earlier had said the 48-hour period following the operation would be the critical one for the three-month-old twins. The operation was completed at 2:20 p.m. Tuesday.

The delicate operation was performed by a team of 17. As expected they found that the twins had a common breastplate, and a liver bridge.

The twins — named Jeanett Kim and Denatt Linn — were born face to face, and were joined at the abdomen.

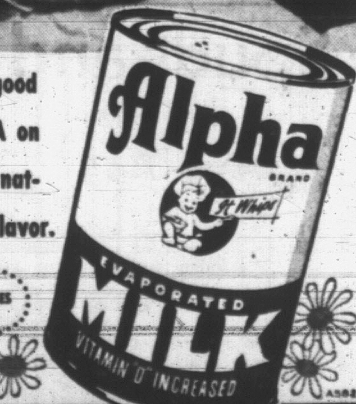

The parents are Mr. and Mrs. James Stubblefield of Parma, Idaho. — Stubblefield is a sugar beet farmer. He and his wife have three other children.

FBI Probes Abandoned Paintings

SANTA FE, N.M. (UPI) — FBI agents and state authorities were curious today because a shipment of supposed medical supplies to an Indian reservation turned out to be oil paintings apparently from Europe.

The 18 mysterious paintings arrived in Santa Fe last month after apparently being brought into the country through Los Angeles and abandoned at a Flagstaff, Ariz., freight station.

The crate, containing some newspapers from Naples, Italy, as well as the paintings was thought to be a misplaced box of medical supplies.

The paintings were wrapped in heavy oiled paper, which FBI agents and state museum workers said came from Europe.

The 18 canvases locked up at the museum include four small oils, apparently of the 17th or 18th-century, which museum officials said could be "masterworks of very great value."

Dock Strike Plot Charged

LONDON (Reuters) — An official of the big Transport and General Workers Union said today "industrial wreckers" are plotting a national dock strike.

The union sent letters to all its local officials warning them that nothing will matter to the agitators "as long as they succeed in again sowing the seeds of dissension among the trade union membership."

The TGWU is Britain's biggest union with about 1,300,000 members. Its members have been involved in several recent wildcat strikes.

BANG, BANG YOU'RE DEAD ... MISSED

NEW YORK (AP) — The popping of a string of firecrackers provided an eerie prelude early today to a spray of lead pumped from a moving car into hoodlum Anthony (Bang-Bang) Brandolino on a Brooklyn Street.

With seven bullet holes in his body, he ran wildly down an alley and broke into an apartment, sobbing for aid. Police said the case apparently was a bungled gangland assassination.

Brandolino is in critical condition.

The firecrackers were either to distract attention from the gunfire or a grim huzzah at Brandolino, who got his nickname years ago when convicted of selling fireworks to children, police said.

'Carte Blanche' Across America

NEW YORK (AP) — A young man doesn't need money to travel, dress well and live in the best hotels.

A credit card will do it all. Police said 19-year-old Joseph Robert-Miraglia of Manhattan told them Tuesday night he used credit cards to spend about $10,000 in five weeks.

The credit cards took him to Las Vegas, Montreal, Miami and Havana. They bought plane tickets, nice clothing, plush hotel suites, champagne and other luxuries.

Unfortunately, the little cards didn't supply pocket money. Miraglia was booked on a charge of fraud in writing a phony $150 cheque.

Miraglia said he made $35 a week as a clerk when he got interested in credit cards last August.

Police said he gave them this account of his activities:

"He had a small account in a Chase Manhattan Bank and he first got a credit card from that bank."

Then he saw in a store window an invitation to apply for a "carte blanche" credit card.

After receiving the card, he took an expensive suite in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, ordered champagne and had breakfast in bed.

Later he went to Montreal. He met a girl there and bought her a $600 fur stole. The credit card did it again.

He returned to New York and checked into the Plaza Hotel. The "carte blanche" paid for his suite but he had

BIRTH CONTROL POLICY RAPPED

VATICAN CITY (Reuters) — Unofficial Vatican circles today expressed "regret" at reports from Geneva that a commission of the World Council of Churches, which groups Protestants and Orthodox, had decided that contraception was morally permissible.

The Roman Catholic Church has repeatedly declared all forms of "artificial contraception" immoral, admitting the use of the "safe period" in the woman "justified by grave reasons" as the only licit form of birth control besides total abstinence.

2 Dead, 4 Seriously Hurt As Cars In Head-On Crash

(From P. Dispatches)

PENTICTON — Two persons died and four others injured, one critically, in a head-on collision on a straight stretch of road north of here.

Dead are Leo Miner, 20, Cherryville, B.C., and Robert Hopp, 71, Nakusp, B.C. Both died in hospital here Tuesday.

In hospital in critical condition was Mrs. Ida Hopp, 68, Nakusp; while Mr. and Mrs. Henry Leslie Miller, Nakusp, and Edward Miner, 19, Cherryville, were reported in serious condition.

Police said the Miller brothers were riding in a light truck that was involved in a collision with a car driven by Robert Hopp.

CRASH KILLS WOMAN

PRINCE GEORGE — One woman is dead and three men injured, two critically, in a car-panel truck collision Tuesday night four miles south of here on Highway 97.

Names of the victims were not immediately available. Both drivers were reported in critical condition while a male passenger in the car was reported in fair condition.

VANCOUVER — B.C. Electric, operators of the city's trolley bus system, has turned down a request from city council that it grant old age pensions reduced fares during non-rush hour periods.

DOCTOR BUS DRIVER

LYTTON — A Greyhound bus driver turned doctor Monday night to deliver a baby girl in the back of his bus.

Bus driver Ron Bowman said a woman passenger got on the bus at Chilliwack. At Shaw Springs, between Lytton and Spences Bridge, she complained of pains.

Bowman stopped the bus and carried the woman to a rear seat, where the baby was born.

GEM CHARGES LAID

VANCOUVER — Two Vancouver men were to appear in court here today following the recovery Monday of nearly $20,000 worth of jewelry stolen from a Kelowna store.

Janos Toth, 23, and William Papp, 30, are charged with possession of stolen goods. They were arrested after police received a tip that someone was looking for a market for stolen jewelry.

SUDDEN STORM HITS VANCOUVER — A short but violent electrical storm blacked out sections of Greater Vancouver Tuesday evening. Services were restored one hour later.

The storm hit at the peak of the 5 p.m. rush-hour traffic. Spasmodic power failures were reported throughout North Vancouver and West Vancouver.

HUNTER FOUND — QUESNEL, B.C. — A 77-year-old Winlock, Wash., hunter, lost for three days in bush country near here, was found Tuesday.

J. H. England was discovered by a search party 10 miles east of Lac la Hache in the Cariboo.

SPACE CONFERENCE ANOTHER 'K' JOKER?

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. Western reaction was guarded. Delegates made clear they wanted to give the plan close study before commenting. A public conference may be held on it. But some voiced private suspicion it might contain a hidden joker.

As in the case of the Soviet premier's sweeping call for a world without arms or armies, the latest Soviet proposal, which calls on the United Nations to sponsor an international parity of scientists to exchange experiences in exploring outer space.

It was feared, however, that the West at such a conference might be confronted with a Soviet bid to set up a key space study group outside the UN on which the Communists would demand as many seats as the West.

CONTINUE BOYCOTT

In making the space proposal in the General Assembly policy committee Tuesday, Douglas, Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov served notice the Soviet Union would continue its boycott of the present UN committee on peaceful uses of outer space.

Kuznetsov declared the makeup of the committee did not ensure equal co-operation of all countries. He added that the decision to set it up over Soviet objections had "hindered the start of genuine international co-operation in using outer space."

The 18-member United Nations committee includes 12 Western nations, three Communists and three neutrals. Of the neutrals, India and the United Arab Republic joined in the Communist boycott, contending that without Soviet participation the committee's work would be useless.

Formation of a key space committee outside the UN would cause increased concern

ONE MORE LEGAL STEP

Moon Almost Red

WASHINGTON (AP)—A space law specialist said Tuesday any pictures Lunik III gets of the far side of the moon would help the Soviet Union lay claim to the moon.

Andrew G. Haley, general counsel for the International Astronautical Federation, said if Russia gets the pictures, it will have achieved two of the three steps required for a legal claim.

The first step was taken, he said, when the Russians claimed to have implanted their pennant on the moon. This, Haley said, fulfilled the requirement for placing a symbol on the property desired.

Haley described the second requirement as to discover, explore or map the property, which he said the pictures would fulfill.

The third step, he said, is to place a man on the moon or to survey it from a manned lunar satellite.

While the Russians have disavowed any lunar claims on the basis of hitting the moon with their pennant rocket, Haley said, they almost certainly will make a claim if they photograph the hidden side.

"That," he added, "is why many of us have been keeping after the United States to get going to establish its own claim to the moon."

World Space Laws Vital Says John D.

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today the new Russian moon rocket again underlines the need for immediate action to bring outer space under international control.

The nations of the world must immediately formulate rules of international law to govern outer space, he said on his return to the capital from speaking engagements in Windsor, Ont., and Detroit.

Mr. Diefenbaker said occupancy of the moon could give a nation control of the earth.

Unless the nations of the world reached agreement on international control of outer space, they would face the same problems now preventing

Peiping Claims Right to Argue World's Issues

PEKING (Reuters)—Chou Enlai, Communist Chinese premier, said in an article published Tuesday that China "must have the right to participate in any important international issue which concerns her own interests or the interests of world peace."

Writing in the Communist party newspaper People's Daily, Chou declared: "Although Taiwan (Formosa) now is still under the occupation of the United States imperialists, the Chinese people will certainly liberate it. No force can prevent this."

"The United States imperialists are still attempting to isolate and exclude China in international affairs. But such attempts have failed more than once."

The article, entitled "The 10 Great Years," hailed China's achievements since 1949 under Communist rule—and occupied more than 1½ pages of the newspaper.

Chou said the Chinese Communist party always paid attention to combining its leadership with extensive mass movements.

The masses were taught to liberate themselves gradually by their own strength and the party never forced the revolution on them or conferred the revolutionary victory as a gift.

City council has asked the department of transport to improve airport facilities, anticipating increased traffic.

FANTASTIC, SAY MONKS OF ST. ANNE

U.S. Pair 'Claim' Famed Shrine

QUEBEC CITY (UPI)—Monks guarding the Ste. Anne de Beaufre shrine studied century-old parchment manuscripts today to prove that a claim by a Saginaw, Mich., couple for a $36,000,000 estate including the sanctuary, was nothing but a "beautiful but silly dream."

The Redemptionist Fathers, guardians of the shrine, were told Tuesday when Mr. and Mrs. Donald Syed said they were the heirs to a large estate here.

The couple told their hometown newspaper they were investigating the possibility of claiming the money for the land at Ste. Anne de Beaufre. But the Redemptionist Fathers cited the Hold of Notarial Act dating back to 1658 when shipwrecked French sailors vowed to build a shrine to worship Ste. Anne, the patron saint of seafaring people.

"It is so fantastic that we cannot find words to describe such a claim as that of the Syed family," Very Rev. Georges Berube, provincial of the Redemptionist Fathers, said.

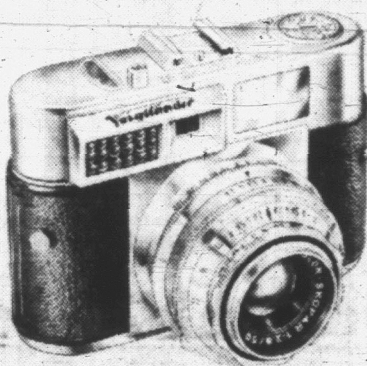

The couple and Syed's mother, Mrs. Dorothy Inman, of Los Angeles, said they found that Louis Portance, Syed's great-grandfather, had claimed his family owned most of the established the family claim land around Ste. Anne de Beaufre and agreed to settle for $18,000,000, half of the value of the property.

Britain Votes

THE BRITISH ELECTION CAMPAIGN ends in a bitterness and violence of language (and even with some minor physical violence) such as we seldom see in Canada. Apparently the British people take politics more seriously than we do over here.

In the more sedate, or at any rate the duller politics of Canada it would be unthinkable for a major statesman to accuse the prime minister of lying, as Mr. Bevan accused Mr. Macmillan the other day. No Canadian statesman has lately been driven into the back room of a pub by frolicsome electors determined to remove his trousers, as happened to Mr. Bevan. And Mr. Macmillan, perhaps feeling a little desperate on the eve of the poll, accuses the Labor Party of harboring fellow travellers and some politicians "almost Communist."

These are only the little extravagances and blemishes of the democratic process among one of the most literate and sensible electorates in the world. At this distance we hear of the campaign's occasional absurdities and passing moments of anger, but beneath them Britain has been conducting an earnest and decisive debate.

On the one hand, the Conservative Government can rightly claim that it has skillfully managed one of the most remarkable economic feats in history. Under its guidance Britain escaped the North American recession of 1957-58 almost entirely, has piled up gold reserves, overcome its trade deficit and given the British people the highest living standard they have ever known.

It is difficult for a Canadian to believe that a Government so successful in domestic affairs, and so competent in foreign affairs as well, should be dismissed at the height of a boom. Yet the British electorate, for its own good reasons, dismissed Sir Winston Churchill as soon as he had saved the nation, and the world, in war. Conceivably it may treat his successor, Mr. Macmillan, the same way.

On the other hand, the Labor Party, unable to deny Britain's recovery, says that too much of the new wealth is going to the upper, and not enough to the lower classes.

It has abandoned any thought of nationalizing more industries but will be content to renationalize the steel and road transport industries which the present Government returned to private management. The great socialist cure-all of the immediate post-war years has been quietly dropped.

Leaving industry for the most part in private hands, the Labor Party proposes another redistribution of wealth. It says it is not planning any new taxes to pay for a large increase in old-age pensions and other social services but in the next breath promises to introduce a capital gains tax. To support huge new state expenditures it relies mainly on a huge expansion of the nation's income which, with existing tax rates, would yield higher revenues.

The real question, then, is whether the nation's income would expand more rapidly under a Labor than a Conservative Government. Most Canadians will probably wonder how any free nation's economy could grow more rapidly than Britain's economy has grown in recent years but the Labor Party says it can speed up the process, not by nationalizing industry, but by better central planning and various "controls."

Such indirect state management rather than nationalization, is the latest version of British socialism, the present alternative to a system which, to an outsider, seems highly successful. Between these two alternatives the British people will choose tomorrow. How they choose is none of Canada's business but Canada will feel the effects of the choice one way or the other.

Mr. Diefenbaker's First Defeat

NO ONE EXPECTED, OF course, that the electors of Hastings-Frontenac would change their Conservative allegiance which they have maintained almost without exception since Confederation. The Liberal Party had no chance to win the recent parliamentary by-election there.

But it was another story in Russell, a suburb of Ottawa, and an old Liberal seat. For there the Diefenbaker Government concentrated all its resources to prove that the public opinion polls were wrong in finding a general decline of Conservative strength. If the Government had captured Russell it could properly have claimed a great triumph and the Opposition would have suffered a shaking defeat. Russell, in fact, provided the first clear test of the Government's strength since the national election of 1958 and obviously the Government regarded it as such.

The result was a sweeping Liberal victory. The Opposition not only retained the constituency but greatly increased its share of the vote. The Liberal candidate won more than three times as large a plurality as in 1958, registering 21,056 votes to the Conservatives' 14,169.

For Mr. Pearson this was a special satisfaction since he personally led the Liberal campaign and sought a local vote of confidence in his leadership. He received that mandate, overwhelmingly.

Two local byelections, to be sure, are no reliable measurement of the nation's political temperature. But the Government has failed for the first time to win a fight which it was determined to win, and for the first time has suffered a definite loss of strength, just as the public opinion polls predicted.

The significance of that reverse and of the polls, will not be lost on Mr. Diefenbaker. His recent whistle-stop tour of Quebec shows his alarm at the Government's losses in French Canada, as indicated by the polls. Now he has suffered a serious reverse in Ontario, in his own capital. The Russell vote cannot be shrugged off.

Changes in The Bay

THE HUDSON'S BAY COMPANY is not only a large commercial organization; it is a great part of Canada's history. For that reason, the recent changes in its management are interesting to all Canadians.

When Mr. Philip Chester retired the other day as general manager of The Bay, Canadian business lost one of its ablest executives.

Enlisting as a private in the British Army at the beginning of the First World War, Mr. Chester emerged with high rank (in itself a remarkable achievement) and, as a young auditor, was sent to Canada to investigate the unsatisfactory state of the Hudson's Bay Company's operations. His report to London headquarters was so striking in its grasp and originality that he was soon appointed manager, despite his youth.

Under his management the affairs of the company were revolutionized. But Mr. Chester was always more than a driving executive, being in fact the kindest and most human of men under his rugged public image. He gave to his company and to Canadian business generally a largeness of mind, a scholarship and an understanding of great affairs rare in any nation.

The Hudson's Bay Company has produced many able men from the time of Simpson, Fraser, Douglas and McLoughlin onward. None was able, in his own time and circumstances, than Mr. Chester. And none felt more keenly the great traditions to which he was heir.

It is good to know that, with his usual foresight and unerring judgment of men, Mr. Chester has picked a worthy successor in Mr. Richard Murray. He, too, is something of a youthful prodigy.

After active service in the Royal Canadian Navy, Mr. Murray entered the diplomatic service where he quickly distinguished himself. Though he had no experience in business, his extraordinary abilities were noted at a distance by Mr. Chester.

Joining the Hudson's Bay Company in a relatively minor post, Mr. Murray quickly rose to the top, as his chief obviously expected. That he would become general manager on Mr. Chester's retirement has been an open secret in Canadian business and is now formally announced.

Again the Hudson's Bay Company has pinned its future to a young and brilliant man, a native Canadian of Winnipeg but almost an adopted son of Victoria, where his parents live and which is his second home. Victorians will watch his rather astounding career with special interest and satisfaction.

"Okay... once around again... and we'll let them get on with their tea..."

LIKE A BALL OF FIRE

See? Right Up There! Ah, You Missed It!

By B. A. TOBIN

SINCE the public first began to receive flying saucer reports from volunteer witnesses a few years ago, a good many thousand objects have been observed in the skies. These have taken the form of lights of various colors, of tangible vehicles described right down to their portholes with faces looking out, or of misty apparitions.

Tobin

They have been seen standing still in the heavens, traveling at low altitude at slow speeds, and zooming at tremendous heights and velocities up to that of light. They have been completely silent, they have whistled with the speed of their passage or rung like bells.

Their shapes have ranged from saucer-like, cigar-like, bullet-like and disc-like, to spherical, cloud-shaped, tear-drop-shaped and indeterminate. They have been colored orange, yellow, silver, white, red, grey, blue and flame.

They have been small enough to hold little men three feet in height, and large enough to hold a city office building. They fly singly and in groups.

Made to Order.

Obviously, they all have at least one thing in common. They obligingly adapt themselves to the taste and imaginative ability of the viewer. Seeing may not be believing; but believing is certainly seeing.

A number of books have been written on the subject of what have become known as Unidentified Flying Objects. That term doesn't mean quite what it would seem to.

Among the thousands of sightings which have been reported and laboriously checked by U.S. or Canadian air force authorities, a comparatively few have been found impossible to identify. For want of an explanation, these were dubbed Unidentified Flying Objects, meaning it was not known what they were, if indeed they were anything at all.

That was all the UFO believers needed. Now every sighting that cannot be identified as a plane, meteorological balloon, cloud shadow, searchlight reflection, moon, star and all the innumerable things which excite people's imagination that is, every unidentified flying object, is taken to be a flying saucer and its listing as a UFO by the authorities is taken as their acknowledgment that some sort of saucer has been sighted.

It Must Be

It's as logical as your saying: "I saw a woman downtown today but I don't know who she was." And someone's answer: "Then obviously it was your Aunt Emma."

A number of books have been written on the subject of UFOs, most of them in favor. Only a few have been written in contradiction. Scientists as a class are usually busy with other things promising more achievement.

Their attitude seems to be that if you want to believe that everybody you don't recognize is your Aunt Emma, then that's all right with them. Their attitude, in fact, is the exact opposite of the man who said the other day that he's going to believe he saw a flying saucer until it's proved otherwise.

It's not so exciting an attitude, of course, but it saves a lot of wear and tear on the credibility glands.

One of the most ambitious books on flying saucers was written by an itinerant philosopher who retired to a cabin on a hill somewhere in California. He had not only seen saucers, he had been taken aboard one.

He saw one saucer take off from a desert location. But when he went back to get some of the sand that had been fused by the take-off jets, somebody had removed it. Tough luck.

He had also obtained a piece of the wonderful colored cloth which the saucer people had worn. Unfortunately, this was stolen from him later on. Tragic.

He knows that some of the saucer people are walking around amongst us today, watching us and waiting. Unfortunately they are unidentified walking objects — they resemble us so closely you can't tell them from people.

Another saucer fan was convinced that the U.S. air force was hiding valuable evidence of a saucer landing. He demanded that they reveal all, but they took no notice.

They should have, because he spoke with all the power and prestige of a newspaper editor. The mere fact that it wasn't a scientific paper, but a journal devoted to the doings of stage and vaudeville folk should not have detracted from his case.

Hidden Play

That is one of the insidious things about the whole saucer-sighting business. The authorities are always getting stupendous information about UFOs and hiding it away in secret files.

By now there must be whole basements in Ottawa and Washington crammed with irrefutable evidence of saucer sightings and landings, photographs, pieces of celestial cloth, fused sand, fragments of metal never seen on earth, and other priceless treasures.

No report mentions them; no eye sees them, no government reveals them. It's unfair to saucerism in every way.

Perhaps some day I may see a flying saucer myself, and join that happy band of scientific observers. But in the meantime, I'm afraid, it just isn't my dish of tea.

In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

Matter of Taste

I recently read an article from New York which refers to newspaper reporters who devoted a whole column to Mrs. Khrushchev's dumpy figure, wrinkled face, paintless lips. Another New York reporter refers to Mrs. Khrushchev as a "woman of swollen ankles" and blue-grey suit-draped shapelessly over her bulgy tummy and hips.

I was very pleased, however, to accidentally run across an article in the Christian Science Monitor counteracting this bitter taste. This article referred to Mrs. Khrushchev, "as having an important role to play with her husband, and she is playing it well. She may not be a fashion plate, but she is a woman of great dignity and composure. She is interested in the United States and what goes on about her, nor is she thrown off base by the unexpected."

"The women of the Khrushchev family have kept persistently in the background during the Soviet premier's Washington visit, but they are an important part of that background. By their presence Premier Khrushchev appears before the American public as a family man as well as the powerful leader of the Soviet Union. Mrs. Khrushchev speaks of Mrs. Eisenhower as a courteous and kind lady and good hostess."

Andy Paull's Memorial

Andy Paull has died and we of the North American Indian Brotherhood know that "greater love hath no man than this: that he lay down his life for his friends." This was Andy Paull's epitaph.

So many beautiful testimonials have been written about him by outstanding Canadian friends that we feel their respect and affection would lend itself to a greater memorial than a monument or mere words.

We Indians love our native land with a deep and shining love. We want to be in all things worthy of it. We want the opportunity to progress, and to enter into what concerns the welfare of this beautiful country, which was the home of our forefathers.

History tells us that the great Victoria documented her wish that the Indians have one-third of the taxation of this province, and we pray for this, that we and our children may not be without justice and honor as citizens in this our land.

One of the great drawbacks to Indian welfare has been regulations without intimate knowledge of the Indian heart, life and motivations.

Ruth Underhill, an anthropologist, formerly with the United States Indian Service, has written a book on the Red Men's tribulations which might be a chart for Indian fulfillment. She says in part:

"The concentration of effort, should be on bringing into existence among the Indians the attitudes and experiences which will lead them positively in the directions they seek as their goals."

We Indians of Andy Paull's Brotherhood ask just this: charity (which is love), understanding, tolerance and faith in the Indian, to the end that he may have the material benefits and trust he so desires, and to which Andy Paull gave his eloquence and hope.

Give us the pledged heritage from Her great Majesty Victoria, and through our Brotherhood, let us have modern organization and help from our white brothers... you have our allegiance and our love. We want our children to live and develop in a human security... nice homes and environment, without a sense of discrimination, for in the eyes of God there is none.

Let this be the memorial to Andy Paull, our late protector, adviser, big brother.

ELECTION EVE:

How Britons Cast Votes

By SIR IVOR JENNINGS
Master of Trinity Hall
Cambridge University

As British voters prepare to go to the polls tomorrow, the following article, by a noted constitutional expert, describes how the British election system works.

LONDON. The British system of elections is very simple. The United Kingdom is divided into 630 constituencies, each of which elects one member. There is only one ballot in each constituency, and all constituencies ballot on the same day. Each elector has one vote, and the candidate with the largest number of votes wins the seat, whether or not he obtains a majority of the votes cast.

Further, two large parties, the Conservative Party and the Labor Party, nominate candidates for nearly every constituency in England, Scotland and Wales (the position in Northern Ireland is rather different).

A third party, the Liberal Party, nominates candidates for a considerable number of seats, but in recent years it has been able to win very few.

Only a handful of candidates from minor parties and independent candidates win seats. The vast majority are won by the Conservative and Labor parties.

Assuming that not many seats will be won by the Liberals (as has been the case since 1945), either the Conservatives or Labor should obtain a majority and thus be able to form a stable government.

The Labor Party won in 1945 and 1950, and the Conservative Party won in 1951 and 1955. Thus the ordinary elector knows that he is voting not merely for the Conservative or Labor groups, but for a Conservative or Labor Government.

National Issue

This situation appears to arise (given the system of voting) from the political homogeneity of Britain.

It is a small densely populated island with excellent communications; and, though there are local variations, especially among the three countries concerned, England, Wales and Scotland, nearly every candidate stands on a common party platform and nearly every elector votes on national issues.

This homogeneity has the further consequence that opinion tends to move similarly in the different constituencies.

There are, of course, great variations in the distribution of party opinion in the different constituencies; but if there is an increase or a decrease in the Conservative or Labor vote in one constituency, there will probably be a similar increase or decrease in nearly every other constituency.

Similarly, if there is an unusually high poll or low poll in one constituency there will probably be a similar tendency in other constituencies. In other words, there is throughout Britain what is called a "swing" to Conservative, Labor or non-voting.

Further, the difference between the total Conservative vote and the total Labor vote throughout the United Kingdom is never very large.

Expressed in terms of percentages of the total Conservative and Labor vote the difference was 9.2 per cent in 1945; but that was an unusual election, and in the three subsequent elections the maximum was 3.4 per cent (in 1955).

In other words, if in 1955 one in 50 of those who voted Conservative had voted Labor there would probably have been a Labor Government.

Consistent Choice

Another characteristic of British electors, which we deduce for the most part from sample surveys conducted by university teams, is that most electors vote for the same party in consecutive elections. The personality of the candidate does not seem to matter much because, in the main, electors vote for parties on party issues, and not for candidates as individuals.

The figures from the surveys suggest that possibly as many as 70 per cent of those who vote Conservative at one election may vote Conservative at the next election; and with Labor voters the percentage may be somewhat higher.

Some variation is, however, evident when a Liberal candidate stands in one election and not in the other.

One consequence of this consistent voting is that, if a party has a large majority in a constituency in one election, it will almost certainly have a majority (though not necessarily so large) at the next. The seat is then said to be "safe."

Changes generally occur where the majority in the one election is small, because then a small "swing" will destroy that majority. In other words, the seat will be won by the opposite party. The seat is then said to be "marginal."

Uniform Swing

Now, if the "swing" is fairly uniform throughout Britain, and we know that it is, and if we can somehow measure that swing, we can guess with fair accuracy how many seats will be lost and won.

For instance, if at the coming election there were a swing to Labor of 1,000 votes in every constituency, the Labor Party would win 20 more seats; if there were a swing to the Conservative Party of 2,000 votes in each constituency, the Conservative Party would win 40 more seats; and so forth.

It is, of course, not quite so simple as that: the matter is complicated by the presence or absence of Liberal candidates, by local circumstances which produce a low or a high poll, by conflicts in one of the local organizations and other factors.

Nevertheless, we can make a guess at the number of constituencies which might swing; once we have some notion of the size of the swing; and this we have in two ways: first, by sample polls taken by private organizations just before the election; and second, by studying the first election returns to be published.

City Land Deposit Forfeiture Argued

City finance committee Tuesday recommended a uniform policy on forfeiture of deposits for city land.

Decision resulted from a complaint at the last council meeting by Ald. D. J. Proudfoot that one person who had dropped plans for buying a piece of city property was required to forfeit his deposit.

while Greater Victoria Land and Investment Co. was allowed to apply its deposit on some other accounts.

Committee was told the company contracted to buy several city lots and then decided to drop one of the deals. It had asked to be allowed to apply its $275 down payment on the other lots.

City comptroller Dennis Young pointed out this would be tantamount to a "gift" from the taxpayers to the company. He said it should be required to complete the deal or forfeit the money as do others.

"It is important that the city follow accepted business practice," he said. After lengthy discussion, the committee supported him.

The Ontario Research Foundation was set up in 1928 to assist agriculture and industry in developing Ontario's natural resources.

U.S. Sub Aground

PORTSMOUTH, Eng. (AP)—The 1,800-ton United States submarine Tench ran up a mudbank in Portsmouth Sunday, but pulled away undamaged within minutes. The vessel later tied up at the Royal Navy submarine base here after its trip from New London, Conn.

'Trying to Bulldoze Us' —Embarrassed Kiwanians

Kiwanis Village Society Tuesday was blasted for literally trying to "bulldoze the city" into selling 18 lots at less than half price.

Ald. Arthur Dowell, describing himself as an "embarrassed Kiwanian," told city finance committee that some $3,000 worth of fill had been dumped on the city property and the society wanted Victoria to pay the cost of levelling it.

The 18 lots are adjacent to the seniors citizens housing development.

The property was evaluated at $10,000 by the city assessor. The society previously offered $4,500 but city council decided that the lowest price it could accept would be $6,000.

Finance committee today received a second offer from the society of $4,500, with no mention of the $6,000 counter-proposal.

DON'T OWN IT

"I'm very much concerned about this," said Ald. Dowell. "They're dumping fill on the property now and they don't even own it. The least they could have done was ask our permission."

"I resent very much the methods they are using."

"They even are proposing that the city pay the bulldozing costs of levelling the fill. They phoned the mayor to ask that and he wasn't in so I got the call," said Ald. Dowell.

Mayor Percy Scurrell said he would not authorize use of a city bulldozer because that should be a council decision. Ald. Dowell also criticized payment of $3,000 for land fill from Farmer Construction which is excavating downtown streets for the B.C. Electric underground wiring program. He said the contractor had to get rid of the fill somehow and the city usually managed to get free fill under similar circumstances.

He then added that he was told informally the village society board felt the cost of the land fill should be taken into account in the purchase price of the land.

"A LIMIT"

Ald. Dowell also pointed out that "there is a limit in how far you can go to help groups like this." He said it was likely that the provincial government would require tax exemption for the land if used for senior citizen housing.

"We've also got to consider the other senior citizens who are having a hard time making out and still have to pay taxes," he said.

Mayor Scurrell said he had agreed to the $4,500 all along.

APPEAL VERDICT DELAY IN DREAM HOME CASE

CALGARY (CP)—Judgment was reserved in Alberta Appeal Court Tuesday on an appeal by Dream Home Contest (Edmonton) Limited and Ronald A. Hodges of Edmonton, who were convicted of unlawfully advertising a scheme.

Neil D. Maclean of Edmonton, counsel for the appellants, attempted to show the contest was suitably supported by deposit of $31,000 with Northwest Trust Company. Crown counsel Fred Thurgood argued that fixed expenses of the contest were $114,540.

Appellants' counsel tried to show that the cost of the home is not dependent upon the sale of tickets.

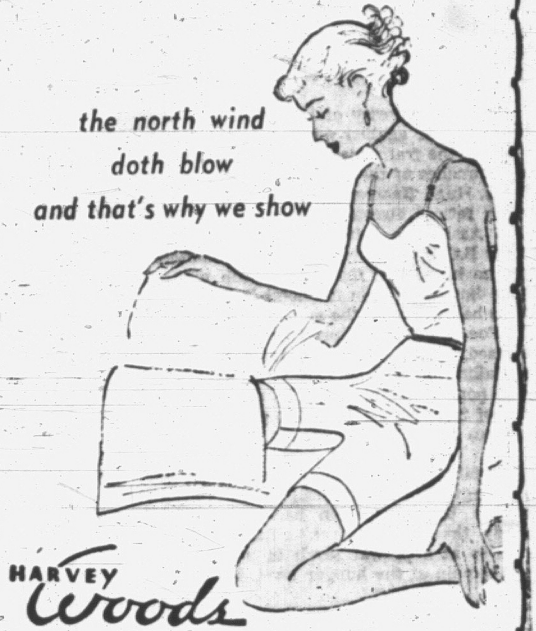

PREMIER SET TO FLEE

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (Reuters)—Premier Norodom Sihanouk is prepared to go into exile from this tiny Indo-China kingdom if a proposed referendum shows his people favor two rebel leaders instead of him.

A proclamation issued Tuesday would enable Cambodians to choose between Sihanouk and his policy of neutrality and the two rebel leaders—Sam Sary and Son Ngoc Thanh—who advocate a rallying to the Southeast Asian Treaty Organization.

Duncan Kin Raise $7,700 During Year

Service Work
Gets Benefit

DUNCAN—The Kinsmen Club raised a total of $7,723 for community and district service work during the past year, retiring president Clyde Porter said in his annual report.

Speaking at the joint installation of incoming Kinsmen and Kinette Club officers, he said that this figure included $4,228 raised for the district project, the B.C. Child Care and Polio Fund.

Reviewing the past year, Mr. Porter noted that the club's Babe Ruth ball park project was now nearing completion.

"In the last four years we have spent a total of $11,856 on this project, over $4,000 this year alone," he said.

During the year, two club members held high district posts. Bob Howard served as the island's first president of the Kinsmen-sponsored B.C. Child Care and Polio Fund and Howard Filmer as deputy governor of the island zone.

KINETTE CHEQUE

Retiring president, Mrs. Ada Fuller on behalf of the Kinette Club presented Kinsmen with a cheque for $100 for their ball park project.

Highlight of the evening was the presentation of the "Brass Hat Trophy" to Howard Filmer who was named the outstanding Kinsman of the Year. Howard was also presented with a pin marking 10 years of perfect attendance and a specially prepared scrapbook containing highlights of his just-concluded term as island governor.

OFFICERS

Deputy Governor Jim Moore of Campbell River installed the following slate of Kinsmen officers: president, Bill Fuller; vice-president, Wayne Griffith; secretary, Bill Win- ters; treasurer, Bob Irvine; registrar, Jim Whitmore; directors, Ken Hill, Trevor Digby and Bob Major; bulletin editors, Pete Henry and Cleve Stenmark.

Kinette officers installed were: president, Mrs. Norma Brownsey; vice-president, Mrs. Doris Stenmark; recording secretary, Mrs. Jean Irvine; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Nadene Hill; treasurer, Mrs. Pat Digby; registrar, Mrs. Shirley Henry.

Cowichan PTA Reorganized

DUNCAN—Cowichan Junior-Senior High School Parent-Teacher Association was re-organized Tuesday when Mrs. A. Maynell, Duncan, was elected president.

Mrs. Orville Maxwell, Cobble Hill, president of the district PTA council, was chairman.

Executive officers elected include: George Marchant, vice-president; Mrs. C. Beech, secretary; Verne Middleton, treasurer; Mrs. D. H. Baker, membership; R. M. Lendrum, principal of CHS, honorary president; Mrs. P. Bruce, social convener; Mrs. P. Gillingham, program; and Mrs. V. Purney, publicity.

Mrs. A. H. Young, Burnaby, past national president, installed the officers.

80 Register for Dental Care Program

DUNCAN—A new educa- tional program of dental care for pre-school children has 80 registrations to date at the Central Vancouver Island Health Unit Public Health of- fice here.

Mrs. Florence Graham, dis- trict public health nurse, hopes that over 200 children will re- ceive dental care at the new clinic.

The dental clinic is open to children from three to six years of age. They will receive routine dental care, including extractions, fillings and clean- ing, for one year. Cost to the parents, $5.

Registrations will be re- ceived until October 14 at the Central Vancouver Island Health Unit office here. A cheque or money order bearing

FIRST OF TWO NEW 105-car ferries being built for Sidney-Tsawwassen service next spring. Mv. Sidney was launched at Victoria Machinery Depot on shore breeze, the vessel slid gently into the harbor and was tugged away for finishing treatment at dockside. Premier Bennett said he felt fleet may grow to six vessels in years to come. (Times Photo.)

LIVESTOCK PRICES HOLD STEADY

DUNCAN—Livestock prices remained fairly steady as 85 head were sold at the weekly auction sale.

Summary of weekly prices paid at the auction is as follows: day old Jersey calves, $4.50 to $7; day old Holstein calves, $13 to $20; yearling heifers and steers, $65 to $121; weaner pigs, $5 to $8; sows, $30 to $47.50; week-old short-horn heifer calves, $31.

Sewer Bylaw Prepared At Alberni

ALBERNI—A $500,000 sewer bylaw will be submitted to the electorate here in December.

Council has ordered prepara- tion of the bylaw, which if ap- proved by ratepayers, will pro- vide a sewer system from Beaver Creek Road to the In- dian reserve on River Road and the district bounded by Kitsuk- sis Creek, Rogers Creek and Cherry Creek Road.

Major Jack Luckhurst said that it was not considered eco- nomically feasible to sewer the less populated areas of the city at this time as additional pump- ing facilities would be re- quired.

Chemainus Man Personnel Head

DUNCAN—George Beau- bier, personnel supervisor, MacMillan & Bloedel Ltd., Chemainus Sawmill Division, has been elected president of the Central Vancouver Island Chapter of the Pacific North- west Personnel Management Association.

R. E. Chapman, personnel manager, MacMillan & Bloedel Ltd., Harmae, was elected vice- president. Harold Whitfield, employment supervisor, Na- tional Employment Service, Duncan, was re-elected sec- retary-treasurer.

B.C. government motor vessel Sidney slid down the ways to the saltchuck Tuesday in what shipyard people call a perfect launching.

Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett smashed the christening cham- pagne squarely on Sidney's bow—a good luck omen—and the vessel moved off smoothly. Sidney was water-borne in 32 seconds, descending the greased ways at 24 miles per hour and sliding into the sea like a swan.

Her first passengers were a dozen riggers who swiftly put lines aboard three waiting tugs before the freshening 30-mile on-shore wind could beach her. Her first cargo was 82 tons of water in an after compartment for launching stability.

The horns of tugboats and the cheers of hundreds of watchers were strengthened by the roaring of a broken air hose, snagged loose by the drag cables which pulled tons of chain down the ways behind the ship—a land anchor which stopped her 500 feet out.

Naval architect Jorgen Baess said workmen had driven wedges all day, lifting the ship from a cradle of keel- and bilge blocks. Her 74-foot beam appeared balanced precariously. If the wind had been stronger or from another direction, the launching would have had to wait a week for another eight-and-a-half-foot tide.

Government, civil and naval dignitaries crowded the christening platform 15 minutes before launching time. Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi "em- ceed" the event.

He warned CPR and Black Ball lines: "You'll have to un- leash your pocketbooks and your power" to keep up with the government Sidney-Tsaw- wassen service which goes into effect next spring.

The twin 3,000-horsepower engines will turn up 18 knots, to permit a two-hour crossing by the 105-car ferry. He said the sister vessel, named after the mainland terminus, would be launched in November.

Victoria Machinery Depot president Harold Husband said he thought his yard had set a new record for a ship of this class, the keel being laid last March and her completion ex- pected by March, 1960.

Mr. Husband said the con- struction of the ship contrib- utes much to the city in pay- rolls and is an invaluable as- sist to the industry. The yards here pay wages averaging $2.42 an hour. They must com- pete with Japanese builders who pay 35 cents, European builders who pay up to 80 cents, and yards in eastern Canada where the scale is $1.80.

Besides these costs, the local yards are afflicted with higher freight rates. "Hence any job like this is very welcome," he said the VMD low bid was a "close price" to provide work locally. (The contract was awarded at a bid price of $2,377,317. First target date was February, 1960—which VMD beat by almost four months.) Mayor Percy Scourrah said the action of the government in providing a new ferry ser- vice for this area would win "universal support."

APPLE BLOSSOM TIME AGAIN

CHEMAINUS—Although it's supposed to be fall, some Che- mainus gardens are acting like it was summer again.

W. G. Tully recently picked several boxes of strawberries from overbearing vines in his garden.

Mrs. Fred Deacon reports that her apple tree is in bloom again and that she re- cently picked a crop of rasp- berries in her garden.

Premier Bennett, introduced by Mr. Gagliardi as the "ad- miral of the industrial fleet," said the new service will in- crease tourist entries to the point where "before many years there will be four, per- haps six ships." He was im- pressed with the fact these had been no accidents in Sidney's construction. He looked for- ward to the first time the two new ferries pass one another at sea, when there will be "a real party."

Mrs. Bennett made a firm side-arm swing with the tradi- tional champagne. "I name this ship Mv Sidney. God bless all who sail in her." A nylon stocking sheathed the bottle under its fancy wrapping. Otherwise the platform guests would have been splashed with glass and foam, she struck so hard.

"I thought she was going to drive it through the bow," Premier Bennett laughed after- ward.

Salt Spring Pioneer Laid to Rest

Archdeacon G. H. Holmes officiated at funeral services in St. George's Church, Ganges, last Saturday for Wil- liam Allan MacAfee, Salt Spring Island pioneer, who passed away in the Wildwood Convalescent Home at Fulford.

Mr. MacAfee came to the island in 1901 to work as a blacksmith at Ganges. He bought 75 acres of prop- erty between the old creamery, now McGills Brakery, and the Trading Company. About 1910 he built his own blacksmith shop, and this remained until about three years ago when it was torn down to make way for the Salt Spring Motors.

SOLD HOLDINGS

Through the intervening years Mr. MacAfee gradually sold his property and a goodly part of Ganges has been built there. In 1946 he parted with his shop and it was turned into a garage. Until two years ago when he went to Fulford to live, he was a familiar figure around Ganges.

Assistant Named for Health Unit

NANAIMO—Dr. Edwin Stockdale, a graduate of the University of London, has been appointed assistant director of the Central Vancouver Island Health Unit. He was formerly acting director of the Skeena Health Unit at Prince Rupert.

Firemen Praised

NORTH COWICHAN—North Cowichan Municipal Council commended four volunteer fire departments in the municipa- lity today, for the "splendid work done by their volunteer firemen throughout the year."

The North Cowichan (south- ern), Maple Bay, Crofton and Chemainus volunteer fire de- partments were praised by letters from the council.

Early Start Planned for 4-H Clubs

DUNCAN—Ken Jameson,

Duncan, district agricultural- ist for South Vancouver Is- land, told six districts of the Vancouver Island Regional 4-H Council that club work will start three months earlier next year.

The announcement was made at a recent regional meeting held at the Cedars 4-H club house attended by members of the Alberni, Cour- temay, Cowichan Valley, South Malahat, and Cedars 4-Club Districts.

Children must be 10 years of age before the registration date of January 1 to qualify, as in previous years.

Mrs. S. Tyerman, Cobble Hill, was appointed delegate to the B.C. 4-H Council.

Members decided the July field day at Saanichton spon- sored by the Malahat South 4-H Council would be improved by classes of sheep and swine.

End to Militia Seen by Liberal

The Canadian militia's new role as a civil defence force will mean the end of most militia units, former national defence associate minister Paul Hellyer said here Tuesday.

Loss of its place as a nucleus of a fighting force would make officers and men lose interest, he felt.

Mr. Hellyer, 36, now a private member for Toronto Trinity, shared the defence portfolio in the last Liberal government with Defence Minister Ralph Campney. Most of his speech at Holyrood House was devoted to defence matters.

He reasoned that in view of U.S., traded it to the U.S. for missiles or traded it to Britain for atomic submarines. "It was miles ahead of anything else in the world."

Besides losing a bargaining power, the cancellation of the Arrow caused thousands of engineers and scientists to leave Canada. "You paid for their education. We lost millions in training." He said it cost up to $150,000 each to train them.

Mr. Hellyer commented also on the launching of the new government ferry Mv. Sidney on Tuesday. He said he felt local politicians should work harder for a federal subsidy for the ferry line.

In response to a question, he agreed that if the Liberal government at Ottawa had raised the old-age pension before the ousting election, the party would be still in power.

He said if the first two years of Conservative power were an example, "five years will do more harm than Second World War." But if there was an election today he felt no one party would win a majority.

He was introduced by B.C. Liberal Leader Ray Perrault. Mr. Hellyer said Mr. Perrault impressed the national Young Liberals at Ottawa recently. "Get him elected, if not, we'll steal him from you."

the dread results of a nuclear war, that Russia could choose to fight "a brush fire or limited war, using conventional arms. In this situation, it could easily occur that Canada would be called on again for aid in a limited action," and the militia would be needed. He blamed Defence Minister George Pearkes for the changed policy.

He said the defence budget generally spends too great a portion on fixed installations and not enough on weapons. He was especially critical of the cancellation of the contract to build the Arrow interceptor aircraft.

"The Americans will insist they send squadrons into Canada to defend their border," said Mr. Hellyer, as a consequence, Canada could have supplied the Avro Arrow to the RECOVERY of this 12-foot-long mammoth tusk on the Arctic coast was made by charter pilot Ron Wells of Chilliwack, B.C. He waded and swam 150 icy yards to shore to drag the 150-pound tusk back to his aircraft when sand bars prevented him from beaching his plane near the mouth of the Anderson River, 1,300 miles northwest of Edmonton. Because the tusk was too big for the plane's cabin, he lashed it to the floats and flew it back to Fort Good Hope, his operating base. Wells' son, Blaine, holds the pre-historic tusk. (CP Photo.)

VANCOUVER (CP) — A two-party political system that would give the voters a choice between right and left of centre was called for Tuesday by Claude Jodoin, president of the Canadian Congress of Labor.

A choice is needed, he said.

but not a choice that in effect gives the same ideology whether it is under the name of Liberal, Conservative or Social Credit.

It must be "a real choice between right and left of centre," he told the B.C. Federation of Labor convention in an address. If the confusion of the present party system was eliminated, "it would be very surprising who would come out the winner."

The need for a new party was greater today than in some time, but the congress, consisting of a large number of affiliated but autonomous organizations, had to leave complete freedom of choice to each union on the question of affiliation.

"The congress itself," he said, "should not, as a body, affiliate to any party, but the unions themselves and especially the members of unions, should do so."

Mr. Jodoin urged all trade unionists to watch the legislature to see which members were supporting their cause and then get behind those members and their party.

"And I don't have to tell you who it is," he said, making an indirect request of the B.C. federation to support the CCL in the next provincial election.

MINISTERS 'REPRIEVED'

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Federation of Labor (BCLF) Tuesday refused to hang two provincial ministers in effigy but later strongly criticized them in a resolution.

There was no move to remove the effigies of Highways Minister Gagliardi and Public Works Minister, Chant, suspended on ropes behind a canvas shroud at one end of the hall at the 145,000-member federation's annual convention here.

But a resolution, submitted as coming from the Victoria and Kamloops labor councils officers asking for the "hanging" was defeated by a large majority.

The resolution asked for the action to protest what it described as name calling and smear tactics used by the two ministers in a labor debate at the last House session.

Can't Fill Need, Says Hamilton

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — The federal government now must provide outdoor recreation facilities for the leisure masses as well as the leisure classes. Resources Minister Alvin Hamilton said Tuesday night.

The crash now developing on the national parks system designed primarily as scenic beauty spots indicated the need for an integrated system of national, provincial and municipal parks, he said.

They would help provide the additional recreation area that Canada needs and "serve as a foil against our national parks developing into Canadian Coney Islands." Mr. Hamilton told the annual convention of the School Trustees' Association of Ontario.

He said a growing travel trend in Canada means that there are not half enough camping facilities to take care of demand, notwithstanding. Meanwhile, Mr. Hamilton said, "too many of our tourist places are not meeting the needs of today's American traveller." Canadian tourist operators couldn't hope to encourage tourists to come back "if we offer them only the hot-dog stand type of food, low-class accommodation and impolite and impatient service."

Oak Bay Liberals In Ring

Acting reeve of Oak Bay, Geoffrey Ellis Tuesday added his name to the list of Liberal party nominees who will seek candidacy in the next election.

Mr. Ellis, who ran unsuccessfully in the last federal campaign, has served as a councillor or police commissioner in Oak Bay almost continuously since 1947. He operates a credit bureau here.

It was earlier learned that four well-known Liberals would seek candidacy at a nominating convention to be held Oct. 27 at Liberal headquarters. They are Ald. Capt. D. J. Proudfoot, Forrest L.

Shaw, Dr. A. E. Trotter and present Victoria MLA and Liberal House leader, George Gregory.

All three Victoria seats will be contested. Incumbents besides Mr. Gregory are J. Donald Smith and Public Works Minister W. N. Chant, both Social Credit members.

TRUCK DRIVER Kenneth Salmond is lifted from his upset pickup by city police constables John Rickerby and James Smith as spectators cluster

Ambulance Collides With Truck

Two people admitted to Jubilee Hospital after they were hurt in the wreck of an ambulance and pickup truck at Fernwood and Haultain early Tuesday afternoon were in "satisfactory" to "fairly good" condition today.

Four of the five people involved were hurt, one of them a patient who was being rushed to Jubilee with a suspected heart attack.

Sam Boorman, 54, of 2533 Cook, the ambulance patient, was admitted for observation and is reported to be fairly good, although it was not determined if he received any broken bones in the crash.

Service station operator Kenneth Salmond, about 40, of 1314 Richardson, is in satisfactory condition with bruises, abrasions and a severe head cut. He was lifted from his overturned truck when police reached the scene at 1:45 p.m.

Miss Grace Hill, 2533 Cook, a VON nurse who was attending Mr. Boorman and administering oxygen with ambulance attendant Ted Lewis, 1145 Mason, received a head cut when thrown in the back of the ambulance on impact.

ALSO THROWN
Associated Ambulance Service driver J. George Veenhuyzen, 633 Elliot, was bruised and received slight hand cuts but refused medical attention.

Both vehicles were damaged heavily in the pile-up which tossed them 30 feet apart, almost upsetting the ambulance and throwing the truck on its right side, straddling a sidewalk and retaining wall with the driver slumped against its roof and driver's window.

The ambulance was going east on Haultain, the truck north on Fernwood. There is a stop sign on Haultain for traffic entering Fernwood intersection.

SPUN AROUND
Before coming to rest on its wheels, the ambulance rocked on its right side after spinning around to face west and tearing out a sign post.

After the impact about the middle of the intersection, the pickup was flung into a power pole on the northeast corner, where part of the box was ripped off and the truck continued for a distance of about 15 feet north on Fernwood.

BOY, 2, SHOTS HIS BROTHER

FREMONT, Calif. (AP)—A two-year-old boy shot and killed his four-year-old brother Tuesday with a pistol he found hidden under the mattress of his mother's bed. Mrs. Emma Wallace said she found her son, Richard Jr., dying from a .22-calibre bullet shot by his brother James.

YOU MAY HAVE WORMS AND NOT KNOW IT!

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often tell-tale signs of Pin-Worms or Round-Worms... ugly parasites that medical experts say infect one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of these ugly pests, they must be killed in the intestines where they live and multiply. And clinical tests have proved that JAYNE'S LIQUID VERMIFUGE kills both Pin-Worms and Round-Worms quickly and easily. Then they are expelled from the system in a normal manner and you are free of them.

JAYNE'S LIQUID VERMIFUGE has a pleasant, fruity taste. Children love it—take it without fuss or fret. Remember, Pin-Worms and Round-Worms are highly contagious and can spread through the whole family.

So, at the first sign of worms, be sure to ask your druggist for JAYNE'S LIQUID VERMIFUGE.

Announcing NEW 1960 FORD TRUCKS

There's a Ford Truck for every job. Left, 5,000-lb. GVW Pickup, right, tough tandem hauler with 75,000-lb. GCW.

...with CERTIFIED ECONOMY!

Here's exciting new proof that '60 Ford Trucks can save you money!

Here are the 1960 Ford Trucks... the trucks that have already "shown their stuff" in intensive tests run by North America's foremost independent automotive engineering research group. These experts certified test results which prove 1960 Ford Truck Certified Economy!

Key components, like brakes, clutch and frame, stood up to equivalent of years of on-the-job service. That's Certified Durability! For example, the 1960 Pickup frame was certified to have 23.6% greater rigidity, for a stronger frame and longer Pickup life.

Individual parts were tested in labs and in actual operation... and from these tests came proof of 1960 Ford Truck Certified Durability. The new Ford wiring, for instance, will serve you three times longer than old-style assemblies!

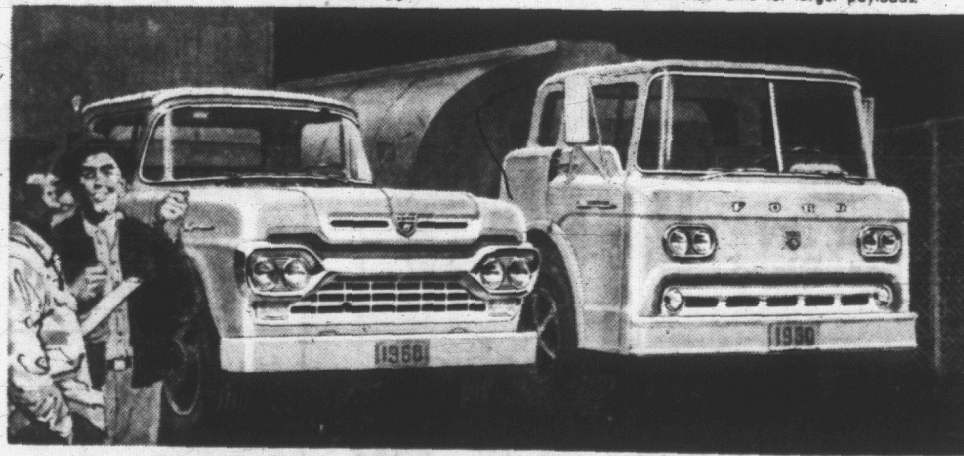

There are new engine changes which mean the 1960 Ford Trucks will give you the maximum in power and mileage from every gallon of gasoline you use. For example, the Ford light duty "Six", the engine that gave better gas mileage than all the other five makes tested in last summer's Economy Showdown, has been further refined to give you even better economy. That's Certified Gas Savings.

See your local Ford Dealer for the widest choice of engine-axle-transmission combinations in Ford Truck history. He'll help you select the right combination of components to give you a truck that's best suited to your line of work.

Anti-Tax 'Socred' Runs In British Election

LONDON (CP) — Factory hand Arthur S. Smith has fearlessly entered the electoral battle of giants under the Social Credit standard. The 54-year-old electrical worker—the only Social Credit candidate for election Thursday—has decided to challenge Labor, Conservative and Liberal candidates in the thriving heavy electronics, industrial centre of Rugby in the Midlands. "I'm not afraid of the big parties," says Smith. "There's a lot of interest in our proposals and I'm getting good turnouts at my meetings."

Social Credit principles, calls for changes ranging from abolition of income taxes to the distribution of credits to enable consumers to buy all the country's production. "Social Credit exists in the Commonwealth and the cultural levels reached in Alberta and British Columbia prove Smith's platform, based on that it works."

He feels that one of the first tasks of any party in power should be to "take away the government's power to create dear money." Smith also wants Britain to give up the hydrogen bomb unilaterally and to ensure that all U.S. forces on British soil leave the country as early as possible.

"If we did that our country would not be a war target and we could get on with the job of increasing the prosperity of our people." The Rugby seat was won in the last general election by James Johnson, a Labor candidate. In a three-way fight he had a majority of 1,378 votes.

KKK CHASES 'BLACK' BOOK

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—The Alabama Ku Klux Klan says it will try to rid school libraries of another children's book that is "a lot worse than The Rabbits' Wedding." The Rabbits' Wedding was a story that illustrates white and Negro children playing together, is one of about a dozen books the Klan will campaign against as pro-integration literature. Two is a Team tells of a Negro boy and a white boy who are playmates. It pictures them visiting each other's home and playing with other children of both races.

PRESENTING FOR 1960... BUICK'S ALL-TIME BEST

LeSabre 4-door sedan

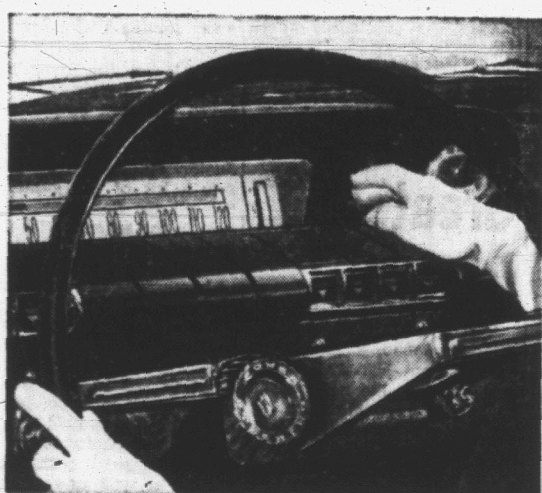

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

A car with major advances in transmission, suspension, brakes, and engines which are Buick's alone today
A solid, substantial car • A car of superb comfort, quiet, reliability • A car you should drive soon.

NEW COMFORT, QUIETNESS, AND QUALITY

Doors that open wider—easier to get in and out. Family-size interior. Seats that are higher, more deeply cushioned, and repositioned to provide more room for feet and legs. Careful comparisons indicate today's Buick, with torque-tube drive and its high use of insulation, is perhaps the quietest running car in Canada. Buick's new program of modern quality control comes to a peak in the Turbine Drive Buick '60.

NEW INTERIOR DECOR AND CONVENIENCE

An entirely new "Mirromagic" instrument panel. It lets the driver see speed, gas gauge and other necessary readings at a glance in a mirror he tilts to suit his own eye level. And a new exclusive safety feature—the Twilight Sentinel†—that turns headlights on and off automatically as light conditions require. All-new colors and fabrics. Richer appointments such as wall-to-wall carpet in Electra, Invicta, and LeSabre.

OUTSTANDING PERFORMANCE WITH ECONOMY

1. Buick's Exclusive Turbine Drive Transmission* is jet smooth, responds faster, more economically than ever. No gears ever shift while the car is in motion.

2. Buick's Exclusive Air-Flo Aluminum Drum Brakes—found on no other Canadian Car. Fin-cooled drums front and rear for faster cooling. Fast cooling means safer stopping, longer brake life. Slotted wheels pass a current of air from under the car constantly over the brakes for added cooling efficiency. (Wheels are 15" size which gives you up to $\frac{1}{2}$ more tire life.)

3. Buick's exclusive Wildcat Engines give high efficiency with high economy. (A standard new LeSabre Engine is designed to give Buick performance on regular fuel.)

LOS ANGELES — Down in the spacious Chicago dressing room in one of the concrete caverns honeycombing Memorial Coliseum, Eddie Froelich was smiling for the first time in three days.

An old friend from the days when he looked after the aches and pains of the Chicago Black Hawks' hockey team, the veteran trainer now gets paid to remedy the muscular miseries of the White Sox. Since no baseball player is happy unless he's winning, Eddie went beyond the call of normal duty before Tuesday's fifth game of this baseball madness called the World Series.

And it may turn out that he deserves a medal for getting the White Sox back on track.

Although they wore black hose during their march to the American League pennant, the Chisox switched to white stockings for the series, hoping it would help fans forget the "black Sox" scandal of 1919, when the White Sox threw the series to Cincinnati Reds.

Froelich isn't superstitious but he thought the switch back to black might help after the Sox lost the last three games-out of the first four in the current classic.

Manager Al Lopez went along with the idea when Ed explained it might change the Chicago luck, adding the comment, "I'd come out barefoot if it would do any good."

Accordingly, when the Go-Go boys opened their lockers Tuesday morning, they were in for a surprise. The white stockings had been replaced by the more familiar black ones.

Breaks Went to White Sox Side

Nobody really believes the stockings were responsible, but the fact remains that Chicago got a flock of breaks in the process of squeezing out that thrill-packed 1-0 victory a few hours later. But neither does anybody believe that the Sox are going to change colors again before this series is over since all baseball players have a habit of placing faith in good luck omens.

Froelich was one of the first to bring technical skill and prestige into the trainers' part of professional sport. A Northwestern University graduate in physiotherapy, he took over as trainer of the Black Hawks in the early '30s, at a time when many owners of pro clubs thought all a trainer needed to know was how to tape an ankle, slap liniment on an aching muscle and pack baggage.

The gravel-voiced muscle manipulator brought a new look into the Hawks' dressing room when he went to work with machines, a knowledge of muscle and bone structure and a touch of psychology. While he was with the Hawks, he sometimes put his machines and fingers to work while I was riding six-day bicycle races in Chicago Stadium, easing kinks in my rebellious muscles.

Froelich also worked for baseball clubs during summers, serving with Chicago Cubs, the Red Sox and Yankees before coming to the White Sox. In 1948, he decided that the job had grown too big to leave two winters and he left the Hawks to concentrate on baseball players.

One look at the impressive array of equipment Eddie packs along on road trips is proof enough that trainers have come a long way since he graduated from Northwestern, and are an increasingly important part of the multi-million-dollar business of professional sport.

Did Ed's Psychology Do Trick?

Froelich couldn't muster a smile Sunday and Monday after the Sox had dropped the first two of their three games in the Coliseum, getting lots of hits but few runs.

"This isn't like the White Sox," he said. "I don't know what's wrong, but we are a lot better than that."

Apparently it wasn't anything his machines could cure, but his little touch of psychology with the stockings may prove more valuable than a gross of diathermy outfits.

Anyway, Ed was wearing a big grin late Tuesday afternoon. "You see what I mean," he said. "Now they've seen the White Sox."

In another portion of the Chisox hangout, Lopez was facing a battery of reporters and denying credit for getting the Sox out of a hole when he shifted Al Smith from right to left field and sent Jim Rivera in to patrol the right pasture in the heart-hammering seventh inning.

"Smith is normally a left-fielder and he plays balls well off the screen," he explained. "I wanted him in left field in that situation." It proved to be a game-saving move since Rivera, one of the fastest Sox, galloped a country furlong to haul in Charlie Neal's smash with two dodger runners aboard and two out.

"But I was very pleased when Neal hit the ball to right that Rivera was out there," the soft-spoken Senor admitted, with the added comment that "We got the best of the breaks today. The Dodgers had the most chances."

SERIES NOTES—Among the multitude in the Coliseum the past three days has been Don "Ducky" Pries, former player and manager of Victoria, Texas. Now living in Alameda, Don is full-time scout for the Cardinals on the Pacific Coast.

"Stuffy" Melnes, catcher in Victoria's senior league a few decades ago, got a big kick out of watching his first Series. Stuffy, naturally, watched the catchers with special attention and was amazed, along with the Sox, at the speed and accuracy at which John Roseboro could throw.

Biggest feature of the Los Angeles games had to be the crowds, which may never be equalled.

The Dodgers are slated to move into a 50,000-seat stadium at Chavez Ravine next year and the growth of television may discourage construction of new stadiums as large as the Coliseum.

However, one report around Dodgertown says that after counting the cash from this season's huge crowds, the Dodger brass is considering altering plans for Chavez Ravine to make it a 90,000-seat structure.

Cubans Come Back

HAVANA (AP) — Havana Sugar Kings won baseball's little world series Tuesday night, climaxing a great comeback from last place in the International League.

Danny Morejon's two-out single in the ninth gave the Cubans a 3-2 victory over Minneapolis Millers in the seventh game of the best-of-seven series. The American Association Millers had led 2-0 on solo homers by Lou Clinton and Joe Macko until Havana rallied to tie the game in the eighth on a two-run single by pinch-hitter Larry Novak.

Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, a pitcher in his college days, attended Tuesday night's game as usual and was hailed by a crowd of 24,900.

The fans went wild. They threw pillows, lit bonfires, waved Cuban flags and danced the cha-cha.

Three players have not yet signed contracts with Edmont because they are not satisfied with the money offered, manager-coach Bud Poile said today.

The holdouts are forwards Warren Hynes and Roger DeJury and defenceman Dave Amadio.

In a pair of exhibition games concerning NHL clubs, Boston Bruins blanked Kingston Frontenacs of the Eastern Hockey League 4-0 and Detroit

DAVID NIVEN

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — This will show you how far the Dodgers have come from the bums of Brooklyn.

Just about the No. 1 Dodger fan in Hollywood this world series is the urbane British Oscar winner, David Niven.

This might be considered the greatest piece of offbeat casting since Marilyn Monroe married the author of Death of a Salesman. It is a sight that has to be seen to be believed. Niven at the Los Angeles Coliseum shooting winks at the umpire when a decision goes against the home team.

During world series games he explained how he got hooked.

Wow! But Who Saw It?

Great running catch by Chicago's Jim Rivera was one of the key defensive plays in fifth World Series game at Los Angeles Tuesday, but television viewers across country never saw it all. Cameras followed centre fielder Jim Landis most of the way, then switched to Rivera after he made the catch. Above sequence shows how Rivera did it. White Sox won 1-0 and now trail Dodgers 3-2 in best-of-seven world championship. Sixth game will be played in Chicago Thursday. (AP Wirephoto.)

SANDOWN SEASON TURNS INTO THE HOME STRETCH

The shadows are falling on Vancouver Island's 1959 racing season.

The thoroughbreds, jockeys and punters entered the last lap today of the 14-day meeting. Racing continues every day this week and concludes with an eight-race card on Monday, Thanksgiving Day.

Apprentice Peter Clark has a stranglehold on the jockey's crown but the trainer's race is a two-man affair with Jimmy McDougall leading Jimmy Halket eight winners to seven.

Post time Thursday and Friday is 1:45 p.m. Saturday and Monday first post is advanced to 1 p.m.

Mosienko Says It's Time to Quit

(From CP Dispatches)

Billy Mosienko, 37-year-old veteran of 18 years in professional hockey, has retired.

Formal announcement came today from Winnipeg Warriors of the Western Hockey League, the minor league club that hockey-scarred Billy joined in 1955 after playing since 1941 with Chicago Black Hawks of the National League.

"ENOUGH BRUISES"

"I came to the conclusion the other day I'd stretched my career long enough. I've got enough bruises to remember it by," said Mosienko.

During his career, the five-foot-eight-inch Winnipeg native, whose playing weight was about 160, suffered: A nose broken four times, a fractured jaw, knocked out teeth, a fractured shoulder, a dislocated shoulder, a shoulder separation, a fractured ankle, numerous sprains, torn ligaments in both knees and head cuts.

Warriors, who open their league schedule at home Friday night against Edmonton, Tuesday reduced their roster by three players.

Goalkeeper Lynn Davis was returned to Montreal Canadiens. Forward Clare Wakhinski probably will go to St. Paul of the International League.

Three players have not yet signed contracts with Edmont because they are not satisfied with the money offered, manager-coach Bud Poile said today.

The holdouts are forwards Warren Hynes and Roger DeJury and defenceman Dave Amadio.

In a pair of exhibition games concerning NHL clubs, Boston Bruins blanked Kingston Frontenacs of the Eastern Hockey League 4-0 and Detroit

Red Wings shut out Saul Ste. Marie Thunderbirds 5-0.

Vic Stasiuk picked up two goals for Boston, with singles coming from Leo Labine and Doug Mohns. For Detroit, Gordie Howe had a pair, while Red Kelly, Len Lundie and Alex Delvecchio scored one each.

Providence Reds won the American Hockey League's opening game Tuesday night, downing Quebec Aces 5-2.

Earl (Dutch) Reibel, farmed out to Providence by Boston, led the Reds with a goal and two assists. Stan Baliuk, Ray Ross, Ken Yackel and Dick Cherry scored the others.

Michel Harvey and Allan Caron scored for Quebec.

Penticton Loses Playing Coach

PENTICTON (CP) — Bernie Bathgate, playing coach of the Penticton V's of the Okanagan Senior Hockey League, resigned his position on the eve of the first practice session Monday.

Bathgate gave no reason for resigning and the V's executive declined comment.

McElhenny Sidelined

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Hugh McElhenny, veteran back, will be lost by San Francisco 49ers for at least two weeks with a fractured bone in his left hand. He suffered the injury in 49ers 34-0 victory over Los Angeles Sunday.

BASEBALL ELECTION

Annual election of officers will be held by Oak Bay Little League in the Oak Bay Scouts Hall at 8 p.m. Thursday.

Sox Happy to Leave Dodger 'Snake Pit'

Donovan, Clutch Defences Help As Chicago Takes Dramatic Win

By ED WILKS

CHICAGO — It took three games, but the American League pennant winners—the Chicago White Sox—every one knows—finally showed up for the World Series at the Coliseum.

And now that they're free of the snake pit that passed for a ball yard in Los Angeles, they're sure they can sweep the final two games in their own park and win the series.

After winning the opener 11-0, then losing the next three when they out-hit their rivals but couldn't get the runs, the White Sox finally returned to form Tuesday, frustrating the Dodgers' bid for a clinching victory in the fifth game with a 1-0 decision.

To stay alive, they went back to what comes naturally, winning with just five hits (all singles), clutch defence and the first three-pitcher shutout in series history.

Back home behind Early Wynn, who'll be making his third start, the Sox are favored at 11 to 10 in Thursday's sixth game, after a day off for travel.

But the Dodgers, who'll send southpaw Johnny Podres after his second victory, are 5 to 2 favorites for the world championship. They need to win only one of the remaining two games.

Dodger manager Walt Alston said beforehand that his Dodgers have an advantage over any team playing in the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum for the first time. He was right.

The Coliseum, filled with gold and bright sun, sent this 56th World Series rolling toward money highs with record crowds for each of the three games played in Los Angeles. But it was an open-air dungeon full of horrors for defence, with the glare and white-shirt background leaving fielders blind.

"Our defence ought to be better in our own park," said White Sox manager Al Lopez. "Defence has been the best part of our club all year, but over there (Los Angeles) it was hurting us."

Using Rivera a Masterful Stroke

It was a tremendous relief job by Dick Donovan, the third-game loser, that put it away for the White Sox Tuesday.

But it was Jim Rivera's running stab in right centre that saved the Sox something to put away.

A walk and a two-out single, Junior Gilliam's record-tying fourth hit of the game, had Sox starter Bob Shaw on the spot in the seventh with Charlie Neal coming to bat. It was Neal who had walloped a pair of home runs to beat Shaw in the second game.

Lopez made his move then, benching rookie Jim McAnany and shifting Al Smith from right to left to have a more experienced hand playing the Coliseum's left-field screen. That left right field open and Lopez plugged it with Rivera.

After a wild pitch put the runners on third and second, the righthand-hitting Neal sent a drive deep to right centre—past centrefielder Jim Landis, but not past the rambling Rivera, running toward the fence.

"Honest," said Lopez, laughing. "I made the move for left, not for right! And I think Smitty would have made the catch, too."

The White Sox got their run in the fourth, when Nellie Fox led off with a single and went to third on Landis' single off loser Sandy Koufax. Fox came home when Sherm Lollar rolled into a double play.

Shaw, Billy Pierce and Donovan combined for the shutout. Shaw, the winner, gave up all of the nine hits by the Dodgers, who left five men on base in the seventh and eighth. Donovan left the bases loaded in the eighth, getting clutch hitter Carl Furillo on a pop-up to third and retiring Don Zimmer on a fly to right.

Donovan faced only five men in his 1½ innings and Zimmer was the only one to get the ball out of the infield.

Still, Lopez and everyone else tagged Rivera's catch "the big play."

A record attendance of 92,706 was on hand in Los Angeles. No mobs like that here though. You couldn't fit that many in Comiskey Park with a shoe horn. In addition, the advance weather prediction is cool and cloudy for Thursday.

Eighth-Inning Strategy Paid Off For White Sox

LOS ANGELES — Manager Al Lopez of Chicago White Sox figures he had the advantage in Tuesday's dramatic strategy battle with manager Walt Alston of Los Angeles Dodgers.

"I had the advantage because I had first base open," he said after the White Sox beat the Dodgers 1-0 in the fifth World Series game.

Alston ran out of pinch-hitters trying to keep up with Lopez' eighth-inning pitching changes. The Dodgers were forced to lead off the ninth with a pitcher—Larry Sherry.

This was the situation: Wally Moon was on third and Gil Hodges on second with one out. Ron Fairly, a left-handed batter, was sent up against right-hander Bob Shaw.

Lopez replaced Shaw with left-hander Billy Pierce and Alston countered with Rip Repulski, who bats right-handed.

"So I walked Repulski," Lopez said. "This meant that I could now change Pierce because he had pitched to a man."

Alston called on Carl Furillo, a right-handed batter, and Lopez came back by yanking Pierce for right-hander Dick Donovan.

Donovan got Furillo to pop out. Don Zimmer, a right-hand batter, ended the Dodger threat by flying out.

"If Furillo had been sent up first instead of Fairly, I would have pitched to him with the infield in for a play at the plate," Lopez said.

Alston was also questioned closely about the complicated situation.

Why wasn't it the old pro, Carl Furillo, instead of Repulski?

FIGURED ON WALK

"I didn't want to send Furillo up in this situation," Alston said, "because with first base open I figured they'd walk him."

Repulski was walked intentionally and the bases were loaded when Furillo came up for catcher Johnny Roseboro and popped out.

Alston praised Lopez for a move he made in the seventh inning. With two out, two Dodgers on base and Charlie Neal up, Lopez sent Jim Rivera out to replace Al Smith in right field. Rivera responded by making a fine running catch of Neal's long drive to right centre.

"I'll give Al a helluva lot of credit for that one," said Alston. "He made the right move at the right time."

Wow! But Who Saw It?

Donovan, Clutch Defences Help As Chicago Takes Dramatic Win

By ED WILKS

CHICAGO — It took three games, but the American League pennant winners—the Chicago White Sox—every one knows—finally showed up for the World Series at the Coliseum.

And now that they're free of the snake pit that passed for a ball yard in Los Angeles, they're sure they can sweep the final two games in their own park and win the series.

After winning the opener 11-0, then losing the next three when they out-hit their rivals but couldn't get the runs, the White Sox finally returned to form Tuesday, frustrating the Dodgers' bid for a clinching victory in the fifth game with a 1-0 decision.

To stay alive, they went back to what comes naturally, winning with just five hits (all singles), clutch defence and the first three-pitcher shutout in series history.

Back home behind Early Wynn, who'll be making his third start, the Sox are favored at 11 to 10 in Thursday's sixth game, after a day off for travel.

But the Dodgers, who'll send southpaw Johnny Podres after his second victory, are 5 to 2 favorites for the world championship. They need to win only one of the remaining two games.

Dodger manager Walt Alston said beforehand that his Dodgers have an advantage over any team playing in the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum for the first time. He was right.

The Coliseum, filled with gold and bright sun, sent this 56th World Series rolling toward money highs with record crowds for each of the three games played in Los Angeles. But it was an open-air dungeon full of horrors for defence, with the glare and white-shirt background leaving fielders blind.

"Our defence ought to be better in our own park," said White Sox manager Al Lopez. "Defence has been the best part of our club all year, but over there (Los Angeles) it was hurting us."

Eric Prefers His In-Laws Over United

MANCHESTER, England (CP)—Eric Caldow, Glasgow Rangers' international back, Tuesday turned down a transfer to Manchester United, one of the glamor clubs of English soccer.

Rangers and United had agreed to the terms of the transfer, a payment of £25,000 to the Scottish club, but Caldow said he would prefer to move to a city near the home of his wife's parents in Durham County, a 3½-hour journey from Manchester. British soccer rules prohibit the transfer of a player without his consent.

Caldow's refusal was a blow to manager Matt Busby, who has run into defensive trouble in his efforts to rebuild the Manchester Club which lost eight players in a plane crash at Munich a year ago last February.

New Lion Tackle Didn't Stay Long

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union have placed import tackle Charlie Horton, 23, on waivers.

Horton came to Lions in a deal which gave Toronto Argonauts reserve quarterback Al Dorow. Horton played in only one game, which Lions lost to Saskatchewan Roughriders 15-14.

Solarium to Share In Derby Proceeds

COWICHAN BAY—Queen Alexandra Solarium will share the proceeds of the Cowichan Bay Salmon Club's annual derby Oct. 10, 11 and 12.

Fishermen here are "out to get" the Anchor Cafe Trophy for the largest coho caught during the three-day contest, president D. K. Robertson said.

But they've got to use artificial lures, according to George Hauk, chairman of the tack and investigation committee.

Contestants may weight all the fish they catch on the dollar ticket but only the biggest salmon will count for the $100 daily prize or the 15 additional prizes.

The consolation prize is a choice of a movie camera, Hi-Fi, or lady's fur coat.

Entries will be received by A. J. Worth, the official weighmaster on the government wharf here before 4:30 p.m. daily.

IN BAY ONLY

They must be caught in Cowichan Bay. The east boundary will be from Hatch Point on Vancouver Island to Cape Keppel, on Salt Spring Island. West boundary includes all the waters of Sansum Nar-

Hall gave his ultimatum after watching the club prepare for Friday night's Western Hockey League opener against Victoria Cougars here.

"I want hitters, not fancy-dans," he said. "If the present defence can't do the job, I'm prepared to get someone who can."

Vancouver has five defencemen in camp: holdovers Walt Cheyrier, Larry Cahen and Brent Macnab and newcomers Sandy Hucul and Ralph Keller. Two are due to go. Hall said he is negotiating for two "rough and ready" defencemen—Irvin (The Terrible) Irwin and another he didn't name.

BASSEN ON HAND

Hall did manage to come up with a smile Tuesday, despite his dissatisfaction over the play of his rearguards. Coley smiled when he announced goalie Hank Bassen will join Canucks today.

The former Calgary star was obtained from Springfield of the American League during the weekend, and will replace Bruce Gamble, lost in an off-season draft.

"He'll be the best goalie in the league," coach Art Chapman said. "We'll be stronger in the nets this year."

Wilkie Lines Up With Quebec Club

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP)—Trois-Rivieres Lions, scheduled to play their first game in the new Eastern Professional Hockey League Saturday, welcomed two new players to training camp this week.

They are Murray Wilkie, a left-winger who played with Calgary Stampers and Victoria Cougars of the Western League last season, and Al Aitken, a defenceman who was with Philadelphia Ramblers of the Eastern United States League.

OPEN HOUSE SATURDAY

Rock-Tossers Step to Hack

The Victoria Curling Club starts functioning in high gear Saturday. There's curling for the Civil Service League members and an "open house" for the socially-minded general membership. That includes dancing, skip!

The open mixed bonspiel will start Monday with draws scheduled each evening until the windup party and prize-winning ceremonies on Oct. 17.

Regular evening club draws this year will be shifted to new times of 7:15 and 9:15 p.m., when the club season opens Oct. 19.

REGISTER NOW

Membership dues are unchanged from last year with men paying $40 and women $36. Skips have been asked to submit their full rink entries as soon as possible and unplaced curlers are urged to register at the office.

Curling for the Afternoon Ladies' Club will start Thursday, Oct. 15 and continue every Monday and Thursday. The Men's Senior Club is looking for a few more members so they can schedule full draws Tuesdays and Fridays.

A new draw for businessmen and women is being attempted from 3:30 to 7 p.m. Response so far has been gratifying, but there is still room for more entries. Ice fee for this hour and a half would be $1 per person, $8 per rink or $60 for the full eight sheets, in the case of a new club being formed.

Following is Saturday's Civil Service draw:

10 a.m.—Bremer-Passmore, McDonald-Purdy, A. McLeod-Thompson, Coughlin-Stewart, Penryhugh-Simons, D. McLeod-Austin, Lavoue-Christian, Westaway-Wilson.

12 noon—Fox-Sponton, Schmidt-Johanson, Spink-Pick, Glen-Kidd, Beatty-Spinks, King-Ashby, James-Red, Moore-Woodward.

Orioles Buy Mabe

SEATTLE (AP)—Seattle Rainiers kept the baseball pot simmering during the weekend by selling pitcher Bob Mabe, 36-year-old righthander, to Baltimore Orioles of the American League for an undisclosed bundle of cash and two players to be delivered to the Coast League team in the spring.

Don't Shed Any Tears For Stamps, Says Gus

CALGARY (CP)—"Don't hang out any crying towels for Calgary Stampers," says coach Gus Kyle of the Western Hockey League club.

Kyle probably wouldn't be blamed if he shed a tear for the loss of two of last year's Prairie Division first team all-stars, centre Eddie Dorohoy and goalie Roy Edwards, but he is as optimistic as ever.

"Sure it hurts, but that's hockey. Although we've lost quite a few players, Chicago Black Hawks have helped us and there have been some real surprises in training camp."

Stampers, who have a working agreement with the Hawks, wrapped up first place in the Prairie Division last year weeks before the scheduled end but lost out to Seattle Totems in the league championship.

MOVE UP

Since then, Edwards has been called up by the Hawks and farmed out to Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League; Dorohoy has been traded to Vancouver Canucks and Don Ward, second all-star team defenceman, has ended up with the National Hockey League Boston Bruins.

Ward, along with former Calgary defenceman Aut Erickson, also with the Bruins, may not stick in the NHL, but the Calgary management is not counting on them being returned to Stampers.

With such key players missing and the league operating as one group this year, the fans expect Kyle will have his hands full producing another contender.

FORMER RANGER

A former New York Ranger defenceman and Calgary coach for three years, Kyle claims he has an adequate replacement for Edwards in Claude Pronovost from Montreal Royals of the Quebec League.

As his top defenceman Kyle is counting on Fred Hucul, also an all-star last year, and Doug Barkley, who played with Buffalo last season. A couple of newcomers showing promise on the blue line are Bob Wilson from Quebec Aces and Wayne North from Kelowna Packers of the Okanagan League.

LOST SCORING PUNCH

Up front Stampers lost considerable scoring punch when they let Dorohoy go to Vancouver and so far no replacement has been found to fill the gap between Ron Leopold and Lou Jankowski. It may be either of two NHL veterans, Wally Hergesheimer or Norm Johnson, but Kyle has not made up his mind.

Centre Sid Finney, who potted 30 goals last year, will likely end up between Merv Kuryluk picked up from Saskatoon Quakers, and Jackie McLeod, a winger obtained in the Dorohoy deal.

The third line probably will have Gordie Veprava from the AHL Cleveland Barons flanked by Jimmy Brown from the University of Denver and Jim Moro from Vernon of the Okanagan League.

SOCCER FIELDS VACANT AS CASUALTIES MOUNT

LONDON (AP)—Dr. Robert Briley, headmaster of famous Eton College, looked over a mounting casualty list of broken bones today and decided soccer wasn't worth it.

In the last two weeks 35 boys have suffered fractured collar bones and broken legs and arms on playing grounds baked hard by weeks of sun and drought.

Dr. Briley decided something had to be done before school look on the look of a battle clearing station. After conferring with the school's doctor, it was decided to ban soccer on the 26 fields until rain softens them up.

The move is without precedent in the 520-year-old history of the fashionable school, made famous by the Duke of Wellington's comment that the Battle of Waterloo "was won on the playing fields of Eton."

HOCKEY SQUABBLE

'Nothing to Hide' Declares Ahearne

LONDON (CP)—J. E. Ahearne, an official in British and international hockey for 27 years, said today he has "nothing to hide" in connection with Canadian participation in the world hockey tournament at Prague last March.

"All the documentation is here, including the bank statement, and anybody is free to come and take a look at it," said Ahearne.

The president of the International Ice Hockey Federation, and long-time secretary of the British Ice Hockey Association, was commenting on charges by the Belleville, Ont., city manager, Drury Denyes, that Ahearne was responsible for Belleville's financial losses in the tournament, won by Belleville.

Denyes last Friday told an inquiry into Belleville's financial affairs that Ahearne collected about $200,000 in gate receipts for the 27-game exhibition tour and credited the McFarlands with $1,000 a game which was used to pay travelling and hotel expenses. He said Ahearne then claimed the tour ended with a $1,000 deficit and demanded the money before the hockey team could sail for home.

Denyes said under further questioning as the inquiry continued Monday that he was aware before the team left for Europe it would receive only $1,000 a game, but had only learned this after arrangements for the trip were completed.

Replying from his home in Camberley, Surrey, Ahearne said: "I haven't got a cent's interest in any game. The rink takes the money. I have nothing to do with the game."

Ahearne said that if the charges levelled by Denyes had been made in Britain, the man making the charges would be in a court of law within 48 hours.

Ahearne recalled that the Warwick brothers, stars of the Penitence, B.C. team in 1955, gave a story to a Toronto columnist that year criticizing Ahearne, but there was "not one word of truth" in it.

CCF Leader Urges Recognition Of Red China to Ease Tension

Canada should recognize the government of Communist China immediately and support its admission to the United Nations, Hazen Argue said here Tuesday night.

The CCF house leader in the Commons told some 160 persons in the Britannia Branch of the Canadian Legion that an end of the quarantine of China would ease war-spawned tensions and increase Canada's opportunities for trade.

"I do not wish to appear an apologist for Communist aggression, but I must say it is ridiculous to treat the government of the largest nation on earth like a small boy who is told to stand in a corner until he has learned to be good," he said.

Mr. Argue said Canada also should press for settlement of the Formosa question within the United Nations or by the States' policy.

self-determination of the Formosan people.

"Now, in the aftermath of Mr. Khrushchev's visit, before positions harden again, is the time for a radically different approach by the government of Canada to the Chinese question."

He said the real reason for Canada's refusal to extend recognition is "because this would be contrary to United States' policy."

He argued the theory that recognition would weaken non-Communist Asian states was weak because many of those nations already recognize mainland China's government.

COMMON SENSE

"For us, too, to recognize the obvious fact that the Peking regime governs China will be a measure of our new found common sense, not of our weakness," he said.

Mr. Argue said Western desires to see democracy in mainland China would not alter the fact that the "Chinese Communists are and will remain the government of China just as surely as the Russian Communists are and will remain the government of U.S.S.R."

"The best we can hope for is that the Chinese Communists will gradually evolve from their present rigorously dictatorial system in the same way as Mr. Khrushchev's government has apparently been evolving from blackest Stalinism."

Mr. Argue also loosed his fire on Prime Minister John Diefenbaker.

TIGHT MONEY

"Canadians got tired of tight money so they got rid of the Liberals. The only difference now is that money's a little tighter."

He said high interest rates are raising taxes due to heavier debt charges on civic and provincial bonds.

"He (Mr. Diefenbaker) has been driving more people to the loan sharks by his tight-money policy in the past 12 months than in any previous year in our history," said Mr. Argue.

WORLD'S LEADING EXPERT

Czar of Art 'B.B.' Dies

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) — Bernard Berenson, considered the world's leading authority on Italian Renaissance art, died today. He was 94.

An American and a graduate of Harvard University, he left Boston shortly after graduation and had lived in Italy for the last 73 years.

He willed his beautiful 40-room villa, I Tatti, just outside Florence, and its superb collection of art treasures to Harvard for use as a centre for scholars abroad.

White-bearded and elegant, Berenson was known as "B.B." Some of the greatest art collections in the United States are monuments to Berenson's scholarship and taste.

He began his career as art buyer for Mrs. Jack Gardner,

Tomorrow ... your wish comes true

If your wishes include automatic transmission, the Falcon's glad to oblige with Fordomatic Drive. It comes with both the Tudor and with the Fordor you see above.

It's new Ford Falcon day!

When you wish upon a car... and when that car's a new Ford Falcon... all the practical, economical, beautiful things you've wished for will come true. Lots of leg and head room, honest comfort for six adults. High, wide-opening doors so you can get in and out easily. Soft, foam-cushioned front seats for real luxury, even on long-distance treks. A clear view of the road both directly ahead and behind.

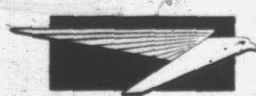

Economy? The Falcon's brand new Six averages just over 30 miles to the gallon—with 90 lively horsepower to speed you on your way. No creeping on hills, no dawdling on straightaways, and all with the smooth ride and solid feel of a much larger car. When traffic's heavy, the Falcon's handy 109.5 inch wheelbase make it a joy to handle, a pleasure to park, even in those "I thought I'd never make it" spaces. And speaking of space, the Falcon's trunk will hold an outboard motor with gas tank, four bags and a thermos jug with room to spare.

Body squeaks and rattles have no place to start in the Falcon's strong-yet-light single unit construction. Critical areas on the underside of the body are zinc-coated to prevent rusting. Even the muffler and tail-pipe rate special attention. They're aluminized and will normally last up to twice as long as ordinary mufflers. (And just in case, the front fenders are removable for easy, inexpensive replacement).

No need to keep wishing—start walking to your nearest Ford Dealer's. The car that makes beautiful sense is here!

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1959 21

TOPICS OF THE DAY

History will be repeating itself in New Westminster Thursday when the British Columbia cabinet holds an out-of-capital meeting there.

"It will be the first time the cabinet has met at New Westminster since it was the capital of B.C.," Premier Bennett noted this morning. "The Royal City was the capital 100 years ago, soon after it was named by Queen Victoria, and before Vancouver Island joined the mainland colony."

J. Redfern was elected president of the Canadian Pacific Railway social club at its annual meeting this week.

S. Peden was elected vice president and Mrs. D. Wilson secretary.

Doris May Norman, Sidney, was fined $250 and her licence was suspended when she pleaded guilty in Saanich police court Tuesday to a charge of driving while impaired by alcohol.

Police arrested her after her car hit a pole, causing damage but no injury.

Robert Watson, no fixed address, elected trial by County Court judge when he was charged in city police court today with breaking, entering and theft of a coat from Dick's Ladies' Ready-to-Wear, 1324 Douglas, Tuesday night.

Magistrate William Ostler remanded the accused to Oct. 15 for preliminary hearing.

Police said a plate glass door pane was smashed and a woman's overcoat valued at more than $25 was taken from a rack inside the store.

Watson was arrested shortly after on Broad Street.

Maria Van der Walle, 4024 Holland, was placed on $250 bond to keep the peace for six months when she pleaded guilty in Saanich police court Tuesday to the common assault of Gladys Quainton, 4068 Holland.

James John Warwick, 1225 Rudlin, pleaded guilty in Saanich police court Tuesday to a charge of drinking beer in a car on Lochside and was fined $50.

Victoria resident Emilio Fossa, 2320 Rock Bay, was fined $50 in Saanich police court Tuesday for shooting within the municipality.

Police stopped him on Stevens Road while investigating the sound of rifle fire. In his car they found a .303 rifle and .22 semi-automatic rifle.

"I tried both guns out," Fossa told police. He said he did not know there was a law against it.

Colwood volunteer firemen were called to the home of Ron Evans, 3360 Painter, at noon today when a slash fire started to jump its bounds. It was brought under control without property damage within a few minutes.

Two city businessmen were fined a total of $60 in city police court today when they pleaded guilty to counts of failing to file returns under the Social Services Tax Act.

Lawrence C. Wyatt, of Overseas Cycles, 624 Fisgard, was fined $10 each on four counts of failing to file for the period April-July and was ordered to pay $86.54 in tax arrears.

Green's A.N.R. Ltd., 862 Balmoral, was fined $10 each on two counts.

Eight wrist watches valued at $91.40 were stolen from a showcase at Horseshoe Newsstand, 1231 Government, between 4 and 6 p.m. Tuesday, city police were told at 6:40 p.m.

The watches were valued at from $9.50 to $14.95 each.

'LIGHT' CAST ON SPACE MYSTERY

Duncan's Flying Saucers Credited to Vancouver

A Duncan woman member of the war-born Ground Observer Corps today gave an answer to the recent flying saucer sighting reports in the Cowichan district.

But Miss F. M. Draper, Sherman Road, doesn't think her theory will be accepted generally because it is too simple.

"Most people just don't want a logical explanation of this sort of thing," Miss Draper feels.

There is no doubt in her mind, though, that the "mysterious objects" a half dozen or more people in Duncan and southern Vancouver Island areas have reported seeing in the skies during evening hours in the last week are nothing more than the reflection of lights from the city of Vancouver.

Most of the sightings were reported a week ago tonight.

On that evening, Miss Draper scanned the skies for over two hours from her home which overlooks the entire Cowichan Valley. Flying saucers? Nonsense!

Miss Draper, who has been a Ground Observer Corps spotter for six years, saw lights in the sky that night in the general northeasterly area the "saucers" were reported flying about, and "I am sure they were nothing but reflections."

Climatic conditions were such that the reflections were unusual to the "uneducated eye."

Further to her explanation, Miss Draper said she understood a new parking lot in Vancouver is equipped with several searchlights. "And there definitely were searchlight spots in the sky on this particular occasion. They followed a general pattern, moving back and forth in the glow of light reflections off the clouds."

The observer said she had seen reflections from the mass of downtown Vancouver lighting on several other occasions.

"It is like a mirage in the sky... strange perhaps when you first see it, but not mysterious—not from outer space."

RUBBLE COVERS THE SITE of a 125-car off-street parking lot as a 25-ton mobile crane demolishes the brick walls of the city's public market building. Irving Strickland took this photograph from the boom of the 110-foot crane during a pause in its battering swings with a "clam" shovel against the empty building's shell. More than 75,000 bricks will hit the ground before the job is finished by Farmer Construction work crews. City work crews will take over when the site is cleared for paving.

Bawdy House Keeper Skips $500 Bail

A warrant for the arrest of a Victoria woman charged with keeping a bawdy house was issued in city police court today when she failed to appear on $500 cash bail for her trial.

Magistrate William Ostler ordered the bail money forfeited.

James Proudfoot, counsel for the accused Dawn Adams, formerly of 427 Linden, said he "understood she took off for a city down east."

Knowing his client had left the city, Mr. Proudfoot said he went to the police charge office Tuesday to recover the bail, which although not his money, was put up in his name.

He said he offered a receipt in his name, but the desk sergeant refused to comply with his request. Mr. Proudfoot said the practice of putting up bail in the name of counsel is common and accepted by the Law Society as a protection for counsel's fee.

Prosecutor T. P. O'Grady said "counsel takes his chances on his client showing up," even though the accused's money is in the lawyer's name.

The magistrate said he was sympathetic to Mr. Proudfoot, but he forfeited under provision of the Criminal Code and ordered the warrant for arrest.

CHEST DRIVE TOTAL HITS $70,154

Total receipts in the Greater Victoria Community Chest campaign reached $70,154 at 1 p.m. today.

It is expected to hit $75,000 Thursday when a third light will be lit on the big Red Feather outside the Bank of Montreal at Yates and Douglas.

There are 13 lights in all. When all have been lit the $325,000 objective will have been reached.

PGE BOND SALE COST $375,000

Cost of marketing $30,000,000 in Pacific Great Eastern Railway bonds was estimated today at between $350,000 and $400,000.

Premier Bennett announced this morning the third $10,000,000 issue of the 5 per cent bonds was oversubscribed prior to closing of sales at 3 p.m.

The premier said he could not yet give complete totals but the sale is over the $30,000,000 mark. He said the commission paid to bond dealers and other distributors was three-quarters of 1 per cent and the cost of advertising and other minor expenses, was less than half of 1 per cent.

One and a quarter per cent of $30,000,000 would amount to $375,000.

West Coast Shipbuilders' Cause Pushed

Premier Bennett said today he will renew a request for a differential for B.C. shipbuilders bidding on federal ship contracts, when he goes to Ottawa next Tuesday.

He reviewed the case of B.C. shipyards which pay higher wages than in the east and higher freight rates. The federal government should take this into consideration and permit a differential to be applied to any bids, when B.C. yards are competing with eastern yards, he said.

"The federal government gets more income tax from the $2.87 an hour paid here than from the $1 an hour paid at some shipyards in the east," said the premier. He said he felt B.C. shipyards were being "short-changed."

The premier said he has already taken this question up at Ottawa "a dozen times," but he will do it again next week. He will attend a meeting of provincial and federal finance ministers Oct. 15.

Mother on Stand At Trial of Son Accused in Shooting

A Victoria widow gave evidence in Assize Court here today in the trial of her 17-year-old son, charged with murdering the man she lived with.

Mrs. Alice Olive Webber, now residing at 421 Durban, said before the man was shot she repeatedly told her son: "He is going to kill me."

The son, Ronald William Webber, a high school boy, is charged with murdering James C. Lusse, 55, in his mother's home at 1417 Camosun Street on the evening of May 23 last after Lusse allegedly broke into a locked bedroom.

The shot which killed Lusse is said to have been fired from a .22 rifle. Mrs. Webber told the court she thought this was the rifle she had given her son as a birthday present.

An attractive, brown-eyed woman, Mrs. Webber said she and her son had locked themselves in his bedroom when Lusse broke down the door and lurched into the room.

He had been drinking and was shouting at the top of his voice.

FRIGHTENED

"I was so frightened I hardly remember just what happened," the widow said. "I was sitting on one of the beds when I saw the door breaking down... Jim (Lusse) had got just inside the door when I heard a shot and he fell to the floor."

"Where did the shot come from?" asked Crown prosecutor Robert A. Wootton.

"I don't know. I was watching Jim all the time," Mrs. Webber replied.

"What happened then?"

CALLED POLICE

"Ronald turned on one of the lights and told me to go and phone the police. I went out and phoned them."

Earlier, three city policemen told of examining the body of Lusse in the bedroom. Each felt his pulse and found he was dead.

Mrs. Webber said she had known Lusse about 25 years. He had lived at her house on Camosun for two years before his death.

"What was the relationship between you?" asked Mr. Wootton.

"He was living with me as my husband and had done so for about two months," Mrs. Webber answered.

DRANK BEER

On the day of the shooting she said they went shopping, drove around the city and then drank some beer at the Army and Navy Club. She had about four beers, but Lusse drank more.

On the way home Lusse began arguing with her about her son (the accused) who lived with them at the house on Camosun. She said the accused was born April 30, 1942. His father was dead.

Back at the house Lusse began assaulting her. He struck

Battle Lines Drawn In Hot Saanich Vote

Council Members Divide on Issues

By HUMPHRY DAVY

One of the most crucial municipal elections in the history of Saanich is shaping for December.

The election will centre around the contest for reeveship between Reeve George Chatterton and Coun. Joseph Casey, a former reeve, who are diametrically opposed in policies for running the sprawling municipality.

There is no compromising between the two men who are determined to fight a "do or die" election battle over widely divergent policies. The issue involved has already caused a rift among council members.

Some of the "old guard" councillors who once supported Coun. Casey, have thrown in their lot with Reeve Chatterton.

The election results—to be decided by some 24,000 voters—will have far reaching effects on the future development of the municipality.

Reeve Chatterton's policies initiated during the past year, call for controlled development of the municipality, planning ahead for parks and schools.

It is the reeve's contention that it is not right for taxpayers to have to subsidize housing developments and to be responsible for sewer and sanitary problems caused by irresponsible land developers.

SPECULATORS

He struck a blow at land speculators when he introduced regulations requiring them to take soil tests of the land they planned to develop. This is to see if the soil is suitable for septic tank disposal systems.

The practice, he claims, is protecting prospective homeowners buying "troublesome" property. And the municipality is saved from having to correct sanitary problems caused by subdivisions established in unsuitable areas.

Coun. Casey stands for a minimum of control in development and town planning and zoning. He feels the controls Reeve Chatterton favors are stunting the growth of the municipality.

But his main argument against controlled development is that it is interfering with the rights of the individual.

Coun. Casey is opposed to the system of submitting most planning matters to planning or engineering experts. He believes only council should have the say in deciding what is right or wrong.

MONEY WASTE

It is his opinion that a town and community planning is a waste of taxpayers' money, and advocates a policy of dealing with problems as they arise.

Coun. Casey is strongly supported by Coun. Leslie Passmore.

The growing rift in council was evident at a recent lands and planning committee when Coun. George Austin, who formerly supported Mr. Casey, defended the reeve's policies.

Coun. Ainslee Worthington, at times luke warm to the reeve's new deal, also showed signs of opposing the views of Mr. Casey.

Coun. Stanley Murphy and Harold Todd support the new policies.

It started when Couns. Passmore and Casey made a concerted attempt to crack the new subdivision-control bylaw initiated to prevent costly sprawl development, and to curb school costs.

A recommendation from town planner Tony Parr urging council not to allow the establishment of a large subdivision in a rural area (Halliburton Ridge Road) until the school board had acquired property in the district for school use, provided the necessary fireworks.

Mr. Parr's recommendation was in accordance with the bylaw which does not permit the establishment of large subdivisions outside a three-quarter-mile radius from an elementary school, until school board property is acquired in the rural area to be developed.

SCHOOL USE

Purpose of the legislation is to give the school board a chance to buy property before it is all developed for housing, leaving the board with only unwanted land for school use.

In the past the lack of planning for schools has proved costly for ratepayers. They have had to pay for servicing $gd improving undesirable land for school use. The board on one occasion had to build a school on property which flooded every year.

Couns. Casey and Passmore argued that rejection of the subdivision application was interfering with the rights of an individual to do what he wanted with his land.

The committee refused to tamper with the bylaw after comptroller-treasurer John Tribe warned councillors that "public monies" might be involved if they permitted sprawl development.

The two dissenting councillors made another attempt to block a proposed new bylaw to be submitted to council next week which will prevent the building of two houses on one lot. This is to ensure proper planning of subdivisions and to protect the property values of householders.

Coun. Casey claimed there was little use in planning subdivisions.

"What is the use of planning," he argued, "Vancouver Island may not exist in ten years time."

Abalone Shell, Silver In Very Unusual Jewelry

By PENNY SAVER

Exciting new hats and rich coloring of fall fashions call for something different in the way of accessories. What could be more effective than some unusual jewelry, either earrings or chunky bracelets?

The ones I saw this week were intricately fashioned in sterling silver and set with abalone shell that reflects shades of blue, green and mauve. Starting as low as $1.95, they'll pique the curiosity of your friends and add that touch of individuality that is the hallmark of a well-dressed woman. Perfect with the new, strong colors and materials!

While we're still on the subject of accessories, I saw compact, today, straight from sunny Mexico. Of highly-polished natural woods with tasseled cords, you'll think you're carrying a pair of castanets until you open them up and find all the requirements for a "freshening up" job!

These are a "special" this week and sell for only $1.95. I have a sneaking suspicion that your teenage daughter would love to have one of these unusual compacts.

It's a frightening thought that it's none too early to be scouting around for Christmas gift ideas. If you have a friend that simply has everything and you're wondering what you can possibly find for her this year I suggest you take a look at the beautifully hand-carved onyx pieces I've discovered.

Imported from Puebla, Mexico, in lovely natural stones, they would add a touch of distinction to any living room. One milky-toned ash tray looked especially lovely. There is a large assortment of ornaments, bookends and other treasures that will show the recipient that you really had just her in mind when she opens her present this year.

Prices are surprisingly low, ranging from 65 cents upwards. For further information, phone Penny at EV-23131.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Here's What to Do for Aching Corns and Bunions

So many women write to me asking what to do about corns and bunions. These evidently are extremely painful. In many instances they have been caused by wearing improperly fitted shoes. However, sometimes the trouble comes from weak arches or structural defects. Anyhow, once you have them what can be done? Encouraging news came from a recent meeting of foot surgeons. Corns can be completely cured and permanently eliminated by new and simplified surgical procedures.

Time was when the medical profession considered the correction of chronic corns insignificant to best health and happiness. However, these can cause the victim to change his walk and posture and foot surgeons have found that painful corns cause serious mental strain, and they certainly have a dramatic effect on personality. It's hard to sparkle when movement is distressing.

Modern surgical techniques are much simpler than they were in the past. The removal of corns by a well-qualified podiatrist takes only a fraction of the time it once required. Office workers who do not have to be on their feet a great deal can be operated on in a short time. Salespeople or workers who spend a great deal of time on their feet usually need about a week for recuperation.

Bunions not only are painful but they are not beautiful to behold. In the past, surgical procedures for this defect made it necessary for the patient to wear a cast for six weeks and another six weeks was required before regaining 80 per cent of normal usage.

Today the patient who has this operation begins resuming activities after 10 days. It is entirely possible today to have a bunion-deformed foot reshaped into a lovely looking foot with a minimum of time and inconvenience.

Women Writers See Pulp Plant

Twenty-two members and friends of Vancouver Island Women's Press Club gathered at Crofton last Sunday for the quarterly meeting.

Members were present from Errington, Parksville, Nanaimo, Duncan, Victoria. A new member, Miss Pat Fairchild, from Hoberg, B.C., flew out to attend the meeting.

A conducted tour of the Crofton Division of B.C. Forest Products preceded the business session. Afternoon tea was served to the gathering in the plant cafeteria.

Mrs. Nona Damaske presided and welcomed back the immediate past-president, Mrs. Dorothy Plant, who recently spent some months in Indonesia and other points in the Far East.

A brief report of the triennial convention of the Canadian Women's Press Club in Ottawa in September was given by Miss Elizabeth Forbes.

At close of the afternoon the gathering returned to Silver Bridge Inn at Duncan for dinner. Arrangements were in charge of Mrs. Agnes Flett and Mrs. Irene Paradis, both of Duncan.

DEAR ABBY

Where There's Smoke...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am going with a man who has been rooming with an old maid for eight or nine years. There has been quite a lot of gossip about Joe and her. When I ask Joe about her, he gets red in the face and very angry. Then he says she is 10 years older than him and there is nothing between them.

I called him once and this old maid cross-examined me like I was on the witness stand. Then she told me not to call him any more. When I asked Joe about this he said, "Don't pay any attention to her—she's crazy!" I'd like Joe for myself. Do you think there is anything between them?

SUSPICIOUS

DEAR SUSPICIOUS: If there is nothing "between them" there ought to be. A wall! Unless Joe was kidnapped, he is rooming with this woman by choice. Don't let him bamboozle you.

DEAR ABBY: After being married for 32 years, my husband still has "ME" trouble. Everything is "MINE" and "ME" and never "OURS."

He says, "I am going to put me in a dishwasher."

I asked if he expected to start doing the dishes. And he said, "No, you are!" So how come, I would like to know, does he figure it is HIS dishwasher?

He says, "My car, MY house and MY business." I drive the car, I keep the house and help in the business. I get so mad at him I could explode. I have stomach trouble and the doctor says I should stay calm. So how can I stay calm? Is there a cure for him, or should I put up with it?

READY TO EXPLODE

DEAR READY: A person who must take full credit for everything is suffering from an inferiority complex. Let him have his "Me's" and "Mine's," because if you continue to aggravate yourself, it will be YOUR ulcer.

DEAR ABBY: My sister-in-law is a wonderful seamstress. She told me to get some material and she would make me some dresses. I went out and got the material. I would hate to tell you how long ago it was.

LOUISE DAVIS

ON ETIQUETTE

Dress for Afternoon Wedding:

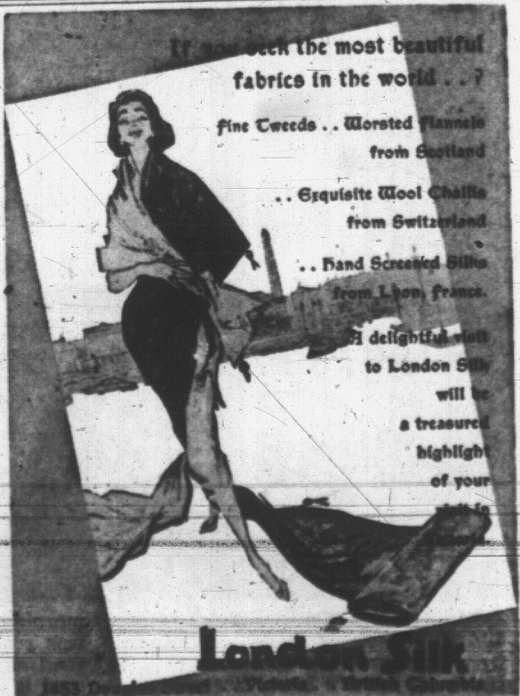

What is the proper costume to wear to a 4.30 or 5 o'clock wedding in church, followed by a home reception? Surely evening clothes can't be right, even if a dinner is to be served. Or am I wrong? I am asking about the attire for both men and women.

Louise Davis answers: When a wedding is scheduled for 4.30 or 5, it is afternoon, and one dresses for afternoon, not evening. What happens afterwards is a continuation, even if the reception breaks up at midnight! Therefore, evening gowns, tuxedos and tails are incorrect. The proper costume for a woman at a formal afternoon wedding would be a dressy afternoon dress, hat and gloves. She may wear a cocktail type dress (has that "afternoon look." If the wedding is to be informal, she should wear a simple afternoon dress with hat and gloves, or even a dressy suit, especially if she is attending the reception. At an ultra formal afternoon wedding, the men wear cut-a-ways, never tuxedos or tails. An informal wedding calls for business suit.

Thanksgiving Recipes With Lift From Hotels, Railway Chefs

With Thanksgiving just a few days away, women of the household are no doubt thumbing through their recipe books and hunting up new ideas for serving that much looked forward to traditional Thanksgiving dinner.

Here are two most necessary parts of that dinner: pumpkin pie with a recipe that is given to us by Karl Fleer, a chef for the Canadian National Railways in Montreal and a recipe for stuffing that will enhance the taste of your Thanksgiving turkey given by Chef Paul Kummer, chef for the Empress Hotel here in Victoria.

Pie baking is easy, but the crust is the most difficult part, Chef Fleer says.

"Let the pastry work itself," he advises. "Don't knead it. Just let the ingredients stand for an hour and you'll find the fat and water will combine with the flour, the water will evaporate a little and your pastry will be a success."

"Of course, having a steady oven heat is very important."

Karl's favorite recipe for pumpkin pie filling is a basic custard one. He admits that the filling is a matter of taste, but all pumpkin pies must have some spices. He suggests adding pecans or almonds for a little variation.

"The most important thing about pumpkin pie," he cautions, "is to serve it fresh — just as soon as it cools." And just as the pie is taken to the table, he recommends a topping of whipped cream.

He has a few tips for other kinds of pies: In raisin, add a little apple juice to make the filling tasty; in apple, use lemon and a little pinch of cinnamon and nutmeg — but not too much or the filling will be dark.

PIE RECIPE

Here is his recipe for pumpkin custard pie: 1½ cups pumpkin (canned), 6 eggs, 2 cups granulated sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon ground nutmeg, 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon, 1 teaspoon ground ginger, 1½ cups hot milk, 1½ cups hot cream, 1 basting spoon melted butter.

Preparation: Beat eggs and sugar well together for at least 5 minutes. Mix spices in a very little of the milk and cream until smooth. Add balance of milk and cream and stir this mixture of spices and milk into the first mixture of eggs and sugar. Place pumpkin puree in bowl and gradually add the liquid mixture to it. Fill pie to within ¼-inch of the top and before placing pie in oven, sprinkle each pie with

TODAY'S RECIPE

APPLE BREAD

One-half cup granulated sugar, ½ cup brown sugar, ½ cup shortening, 2 eggs, beaten; 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon baking soda, 1 cup finely chopped unpeeled apple, ½ cup chopped dates, ½ cup chopped nuts, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Cream sugars and shortening. Add eggs and beat well. Sift together dry ingredients, add to first mixture. Add remaining ingredients. Spread evenly in greased loaf pan. Bake in moderate oven 350F about 1 hour.

FOR TURKEY

Here is a tip from Chef Karl Fleer. When it comes time to stuff that turkey, his favorite recipe for a 20-25 lb. eviscerated bird is the "Empress" peach and chestnut dressing. First, you prepare 12 white rolls or ½ loaf white bread; then chop fine ½ lb. bacon or ham, 2 medium size Spanish onions and 1 head celery heart, add 3 eggs, ½ teaspoon combined pepper, nutmeg, sage, thyme, 1 tablespoon salt, 1 teaspoon fine cut chives, 4 fresh or preserved peaches, peeled and diced, and 1 tin glazed chestnuts, 15 oz., cut in quarters. Method: moisten bread with approximately 1½ pints milk, fry bacon and celery and mix with bread, add other ingredients except peaches and chestnuts. Add peaches and chestnuts, and bake for 40 minutes in buttered pan at approximately 300 degrees F. Pour three tablespoons turkey gravy over dressing and serve. Note: Chestnuts (or Marrons) may be placed on surface of dressing rather than mixed under.

Thanksgiving weekend, Karl Fleer, left, a Montreal chef, who bakes a thousand pies a week, will prepare 500 pumpkin pies to be served with traditional dinners on Canadian National Railways' diners across the country. Chef Paul Kummer, Victoria, is shown preparing a turkey for a dinner at the Empress Hotel.

Wedding in Naden Chapel

To make their home at Annapolis Royal, N.S., are recent newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. John Valentine Cameron. Wedding took place in HMCS Naden Chapel with Chaplain (P) Douglas Fuller.

G. Clarke was organist and Miss Georgia Neale, soloist, sang "The Wedding Prayer."

Bride the former Joan Mildred, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Max Chalk of Victoria, was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of Chantilly lace and chiffon. Bodice featured a scooped neckline embroidered with hand-cut lace flowers and iridescent sequins. Chiffon skirt was pleated over a tulle. Her cap of lace and pearls held a fingertip-length veil. Only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, gift of the groom. She carried a cascade of red roses and white carnations with green fern.

Maid of honor, Miss Ruth Parib, wore a gown of embroidered nylon over taffeta in pink tone. Mrs. J. Yurgiasen, brides-matron, and bridesmaid Miss Pat Tyson wore identical gowns in turquoise hue. All carried bouquets of pink and white carnations. Little Linda Chalk, flower girl, wore a short white nylon frock with pink velvet sash. She held a basket of white marguerites and pink chrysanthemums.

Carl Chalk was best man and ushers were Herb Bootsman and Wayne McLeod.

Fred Moyes, uncle of bride, proposed the toast at reception in Holyrood House. Newlyweds cut a three-tier cake. It centred a lace-covered table, flanked by white candles and pink roses.

For a honeymoon trip to Portland, bride donned a chocolate brown wool suit with accessories in turquoise and brown tones. Her corsage was of pink roses.

Mission Groups Speaker At Next Week's Rally

Guest speaker at a rally of senior auxiliaries of the Women's Missionary Society, Presbyterian Church, in Canada, next Tuesday afternoon, and also a rally of evening auxiliaries the same night, will be Miss Nellie Smith. Both meetings will be held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Miss Smith is presently working with the women's missionary society through the evening department. She attended school in Collingwood, Ont., and was accountant and assistant to the treasurer of the WMS of the Presbyterian Church in Canada for many years.

At the time of Union when the WMS was faced with difficulties, Miss Smith volunteered to help and, for a short time, was a one-woman office staff. Her executive ability, especially on financial lines, has been of invaluable assistance to the society.

On her own initiative, Miss Smith took a course and graduated from the missionary and deaconess training school in 1939. She has held appointments in connection with mission bands, CGIT groups and the young women's department of the society.

Life Member Opens Bazaar

Mrs. M. Urwin, life member of Ladies' Auxiliary to the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans, officiated at opening of the annual bazaar in Britannia Hall, last Saturday. She was introduced by the president, Mrs. M. Hurst.

Affair realized $367. Mrs. S. Favel convened tea arrangements assisted by Mrs. J. Chamberlin, Mrs. A. Burnett, Mrs. B. Reason and Mrs. S. Towers. Conveners and helpers at stalls were as follows: Mrs. M. Bennett, Mrs. M. Carver, Mrs. D. Kissinger, Mrs. S. Tahouney, Mrs. M. Tahouney, Mrs. P. Dickie, Mrs. G. Cooney, Mrs. E. Falconer, Mrs. P. Martin and Mrs. B. McMillan sold tickets on a chicken dinner; Mrs. E. Evans, grocery hamper; Mrs. C. Cleaver, tombola. In charge at the door was Mrs. S. Kelly.

New members welcomed at a recent meeting of the auxiliary were Mrs. P. Krisher, Mrs. I. Langton, Mrs. M. April, Mrs. S. Towers, Mrs. I. Connell, Mrs. D. Hagen. Plans were made for the annual banquet.

Weekend Visit

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Duffus, West Vancouver, will be spending the Thanksgiving weekend with their son and daughter-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. John Duffus at their home on McLaren Avenue.

Bodice front had a pattern of daisies. A coronet of seed pearls and rhinestones held her fingertip veil. A gold locket, gift of the groom and heirloom gold earrings, belonging to the groom's grandmother, were her jewelry pieces. She carried red roses and pink carnations en bouquet.

Mrs. S. Chiverall was pianist for ceremony.

Chiffon gowns, in pink and blue respectively, were worn by matron of honor, Mrs. E. B. West, Jr. and Mrs. L. Horth, bridesmaid. Flower girl, Sharon Bissett, wore a floor-length pink nylon frock with matching headdress. All carried bouquets of pink roses and white carnations.

Ken Bisset was best man and ushers were Robert West and Leonard Horth.

A three-tier cake decorated with pink roses was cut by the newlyweds at reception in Holyrood House. Rev. Smiley proposed toast.

For her going-away outfit, bride chose a beige fitted suit. Her accessories were in blue and black tones. After a honeymoon on the Island and to the mainland, couple will make their home in Victoria.

Female 'Huck Finns' Drift On Raft Down Mississippi

TORONTO (CP) — Pretty Anne, who is studying child psychology at the University of Minnesota at Minneapolis, is thinking of a vacation trip to Alaska next year.

She spent 12 days last summer drifting down the Mississippi on a raft with an American girl.

Anne and Pat Gogins of Syracuse, N.Y., had their first night out "at rained and thundered and the waves got higher and higher," Anne said.

"I've never been so scared in all my life," Anne said.

The girls spent their nights on sand bars or rock piles in the middle of the river because they were too frightened to go ashore.

The girls were drenched by rain but they completed their adventure from Minneapolis to New Orleans.

Announcing Meteor for 1960

1960 METEOR MONTCALM four-door sedan—one of Ford of Canada's fine cars.

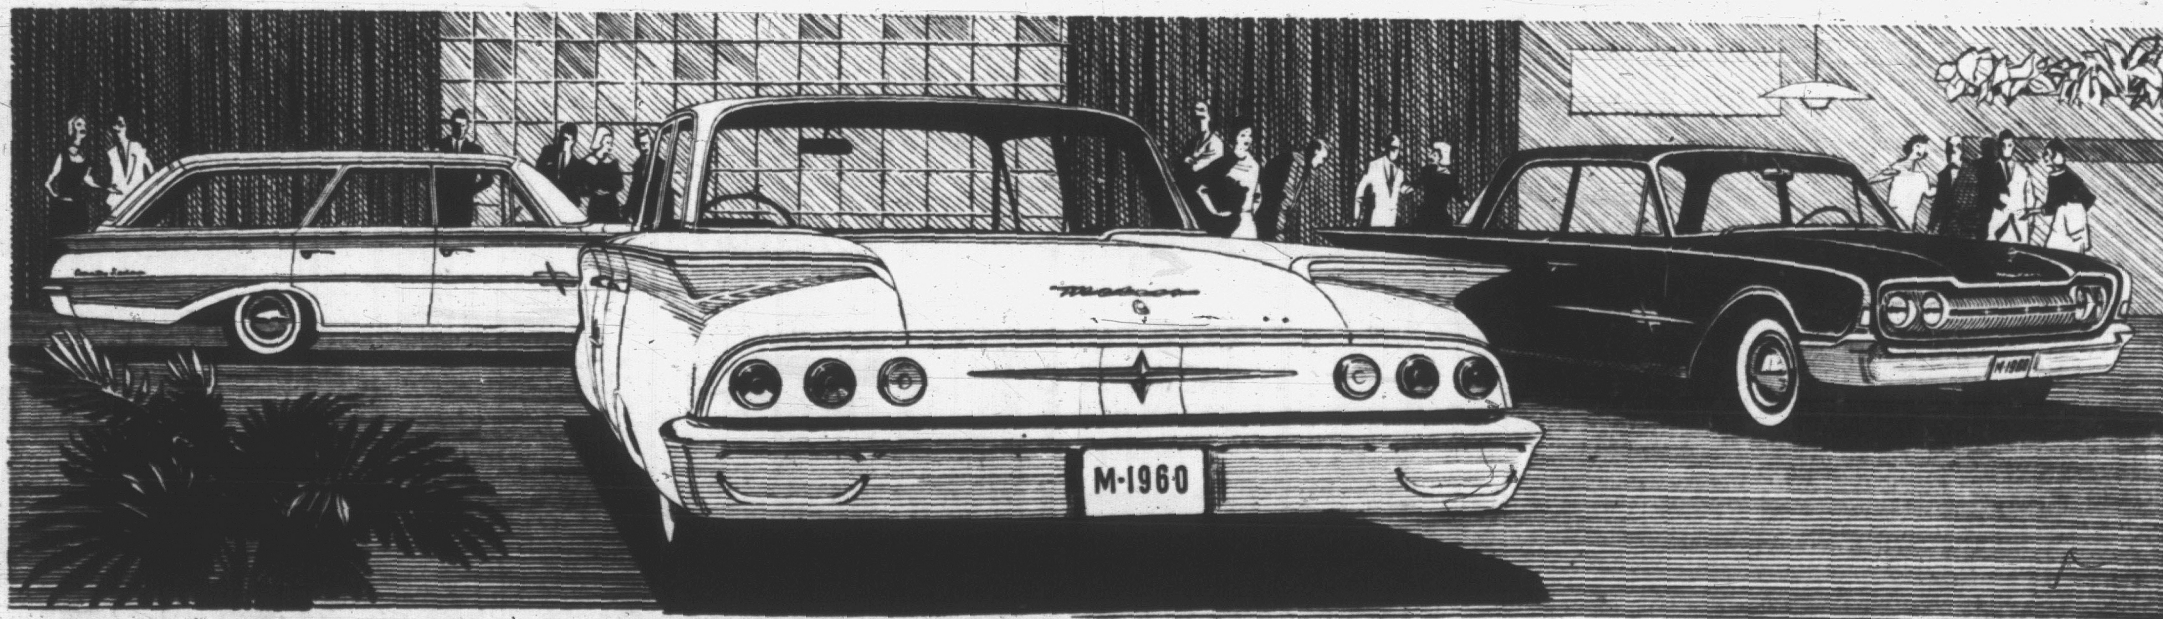

Canada's idea car of the year—and looks it!

So outstanding is Meteor's originality for 1960 that out of the twelve models in four series, there are three distinctive roof stylings! From glamorous grille to taillight grouping, Meteor is unmistakably Canadian. Every clean-flowing line is pure-bred function—and its beauty tells you so! Power is just as new! Both Tempest V-8's and the famous Econ-O-Fuel Six deliver maximum power at speeds you drive most. Standard engines purr best on regular grade gasoline—and save up to five cents a gallon. New full-flow oil filter lets you drive up to 4,000 miles between oil changes. Comfort and convenience is new! Wide new doors permit easy entry and exit. New seats are at comfortable height with foam cushioning standard on front seats. There's more head room, leg room, and shoulder room for true six-passenger roominess. Riding comfort is new. Miles fade away and bumps vanish under Meteor's new front suspension, and wider-tread wheels. New self-levelling rear suspension keeps stop-and-start driving smooth and level. Meteor's new brakes are largest in its field—25% larger! In every way, Meteor is Canada's idea car of the year. And not only looks it—but acts it! See the most distinctive Meteor ever—at your local Meteor dealer's.

LIKE A TANK GUN

New Rifle Packs a Punch

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Infantryman destructive capabilities nearly equal to those of a medium-sized tank gun, the new weapon was said to be capable of destroying the largest known tank.

LT. Gen. Arthur G. Trudeau, chief of army research, said the weapon, developed at the Frankford Arsenal here, was designed for a two-man team but could be operated by one man.

The rifle is effective up to 500 yards, more than twice the range of the 3.5-inch rocket-firing bazooka used in the Second World War and Korea.

The weapon is four feet long and weighs 35 pounds. One man will carry and fire it, said Trudeau, while the second carries ammunition and loads the weapon. A round of ammunition weighs nine pounds.

Missile Fuel Blast Shakes Big Area; 2 Die

KENVIL, N.J. (AP) — A half-ton of experimental rocket propellant exploded at the Hercules Powder Co. plant Monday, shaking the earth for miles around. Two men were killed and five slightly injured. One of the injured was only 20 feet from the explosion. "He was pretty lucky to escape," said Albert R. Ely, works manager. The dead men had been mixing the propellant by remote control in a bunker, lined with concrete and barricaded with earth. Ely said the two mixers they were using blew up.

ask Andy HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victory Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Shaun Wollner, aged 13, of Los Angeles, Calif.

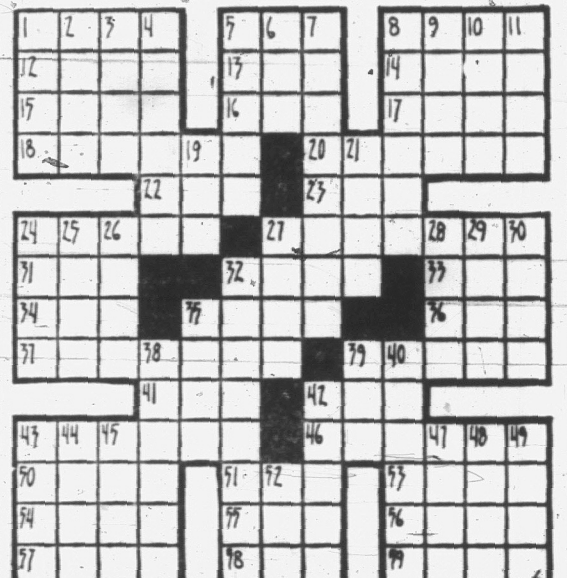

Do Prairie Dogs Hibernate?

Shaun saw a couple of prairie dogs sleeping on the ground in the early fall and naturally wondered whether these fellows started their long winter sleep during Indian summer. Andy is sure that these prairie dogs were not hibernating. It could be that they were just enjoying an afternoon snooze. Let's hope this is so for the alternative is not so pleasant.

Grow Heavy Winter Coat

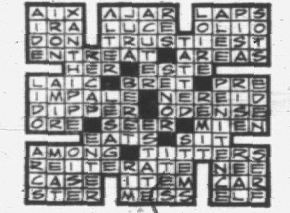

All prairie dogs, whether they hibernate or not, make certain preparations for the winter. Some of them change their tawny, brown coats for thicker coats of paler fur. All of them stuff themselves during the late summer and early fall in order to take on an extra layer of fat. For they are strict vegetarians and plants are always scrawny and less plentiful during the winter. Indian summer for the prairie dog is a time of extra hurry and scurry.

The most cruel winter weather cannot hurt the prairie dog in his cozy home. The entrance is a hole in a mound and it leads to a burrow which runs straight down for 15 feet or more. A few feet below the surface is a little niche in a passage wall. Here an escaping prairie dog can turn around and utter that last yip of defiance to his enemy.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Julie London has got problems trying to be a sexpot on TV, and records, and in the movies, and a lady in real life. Jerks are always pestering her with weird calls which almost make her forget she's a lady.

"There was one yesterday who wanted to come up and take pictures of me," Julie told me recently. "He was writing a novel."

"I wondered why he wanted to take pictures for a novel. So I told him I had somebody who handled all those requests and gave him the name. That's all we heard from him!"

Julie was also bothered a couple of years ago by a telephone pest who claimed to be on my staff and called girls often very early in the morning—whom he asked very, very personal questions.

"He started out with me by saying, 'Get your little wiggle out of bed and get to work,'" Julie recalled.

"I knew he didn't know me very well or he wouldn't have said 'little'."

"I had been alerted about this chappie—whom we subsequently caught—so she tried to help catch him."

"I'm not very busy now," she said. "Want to come over?" "Oh, I don't feel too well," he answered.

But the sexpot come-on has done great things for Julie who'll probably be seen on TV in her own show, "Maggie," a night club music-and-mystery thriller series. And the gal who has had two careers—one before and one after she was Mrs. Jack Webb—reaches the peak of her movie fame in one coming up, "The Wonderful Country."

"I have the funniest shape," she told me. "I'm 53. From my knees up I should be 58. ... About Franchot Tone suddenly looking old, for TV, Max Asnas says: "He must be a horse player."

But the only one complaining about it is Julie.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL ...

Alan Drake's saddened and annoyed by innuendoes about his murdered wife—and being urged by lawyers to challenge the ethics of officials who voice suspicions before submitting them to a grand jury.

"Hidden wealth! Janice scrimped and saved for the boy," he protests. "They should find out how often she was in the laundry room!" ... Tough Guy Lil' Augie, it comes out, once appeared with his scalp heavily bandaged. A femme, resenting his wooing another, clobbered him with a lamp. He was also scared of Fiorella LaGuardia—whom he called a punk and chased him to Florida.

The Kim Novak-Dick Quine 'womanize' is serious. ... Realtor A. Sheldon Jaffe, announced at Danny's that the $1 billion men's clothing biz will move from Union Sq. to the new Zeckendorf Hotel area.

NEW YORK (AP)—Italian Prime Minister Antonio Segni flew home Monday after a five-day visit to the United States. The premier and his party, which included Italian Foreign Minister Giuseppe Pella, arrived in the United States last Wednesday on a mission to increase American industrial investment in Italy.

BUFFALO HUNT THRILLS MODERN-DAY SPORTSMEN

EDMONTON (CP) — The first North American buffalo hunt in 66 years is proving to be no barn-door shooting expedition.

After three weeks, the hunt on the rugged southern plains of the Northwest Territories already has provided safari-type thrills to a dozen sportsmen.

One 2,500-pound bull, after absorbing 15 shots, still managed to charge within 20 feet of a United States hunter.

Others have amazed hunters with their ability to withstand the firepower of .30-06 calibre and other high-powered rifles.

The trophies have been supreme. One bull measured 30½ inches across the widest point of the head, only 4½ inches off the record head taken in Wyoming's Yellowstone Park.

The hunt for strays which drift out of Alberta's Wood Buffalo National Park and across the N.W.T. border began Sept. 15 and ends Nov. 30.

Only 30 licences have been issued, each good for one buffalo, with the hunters leaving in groups each week from Fort Smith, N.W.T., 450 miles north of here.

The hunt takes place in rolling, lightly forested country west of the Slave River between the Alberta-N.W.T. border and Great Slave Lake.

ROUGH WEATHER

The weather has not been particularly good for the hunters, who live in tents and move on horseback or foot.

A half-inch of rain fell one day last week. This week, temperatures dropped to 20-35 degrees range and there were snowflurries as Arctic air drifted into the area.

The hunters have been tracking old bulls driven from the herds by their stronger juniors.

The bulls, besides making the best trophies, tend to be cranky. Though their eyesight is poor, they'll charge at times.

Veteran outfitter Claude Brewster of Banff, Alta., describes buffalo hunting as similar to hunting for moose but "a lot more dangerous."

The reward is the trophy and Brewster says he expects a record before the season ends.

COSTLY SPORT

The hunters pay dearly for their stab at big game glory. Special licences cost up to $200. Brewster's fee is $500 and Fort Smith—the jumping-off point—is inaccessible except by air. A round-trip from Edmonton costs at least $76.

The licences, issued by the federal government, cost Canadians $50 and Americans $200. They are the first ever issued. Buffalo hunting—except by treaty Indians and Eskimos—was banned in Canada in 1893 when the herd dwindled to about 300.

Now more than 18,000 of the shaggy, horned beasts roam Wood Buffalo Park and bordering areas almost free of natural enemies.

INGO IN HOLLYWOOD—Heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson lifts lovely Evy Norlund for benefit of photographers on arrival in movie capital Tuesday to play role in Columbia Studios film, "All the Young Men." Miss Norlund was Miss Denmark in last year's Miss Universe contest. Johansson has already made a successful singing appearance on TV on the Dinah Shore Show. (AP Wirephoto.)

TRAFFIC FINES

In Saanich police court Tuesday:

Brenton Robert Siddon, 3264 Alder, and Belo Ploce, Sidney, $100 each for driving while under suspension.

Brian Sedgman, Sidney, $35 for careless driving.

Friedrich Eggert, 1318 Balmoral, $20 for violation of driver's licence restriction.

Stanley Pearson, Jordan River, $20 for following another vehicle too closely and $20 for violation of driver's licence restriction.

Hans W. F. Van Leeuwen, 1253 Hastings, $20 for speeding over 30.

The eventful FRONTENAC two-door sedan—one of Ford of Canada's fine cars.

THE EVENTFUL

FRONTENAC

It's an event—Canada's new, trim-size six-passenger car is here!

This is the new car event you've been waiting for! Just 54 inches high, 70 inches wide and 181 sleek inches handsome, the eventful Frontenac is as Canadian in looks as its name implies. The glamorous grille and gleaming maple leaf accents are exclusive. From every angle this car is distinctive. ♦ Beautiful—and roomy, too—the trim new Frontenac seats six people in comfort... offers over 23 cubic feet of trunk space... turns around in just 38 feet... delivers over thirty miles to the gallon of regular gas! ♦ How all this beauty, roominess and gas-saving economy in one car? Through a completely new approach to car design. A better type of single-unit construction keeps weight under 2400 pounds and performance sparkling. The Frontenac body is both light and strong—because every section is a structural member. Built to last—because points normally susceptible to rust are undercoated with zinc. Single-unit construction also keeps the eventful Frontenac amazingly rattle-free and whisper-silent inside. It's a car you can be proud to own. ♦ You can be proud of your good sense, too, because the all-new 90 hp Frontenac six-cylinder engine has Short-Stroke design; takes you and five passengers more than thirty enjoyable miles to the gallon of gas. The powerful new heater doesn't use up gasoline, either. You save on oil, because the eventful Frontenac has a Full-Flow oil filter that lets you drive up to 4000 miles between oil changes. Whether you choose standard manual shift, or lively new automatic, your Frontenac will be fun to drive... and truly economical. ♦ Until you actually ride in its six-passenger roomy body... appreciate its quick response and safe, sure stopping power... and start saving every mile you drive, you just can't know how altogether eventful the Frontenac is. ♦ Until now, you couldn't enjoy all these advantages in one car. But today is different. This is the new car event you've been waiting for—and its name is Frontenac. At your local Meteor dealer.

Certain features illustrated or mentioned are standard on some models, optional at extra cost on others.

Choose from two-door or four-door models at your Meteor-Mercury-Frontenac dealer tomorrow!

K SAYS SUMMIT FALL OR WINTER

MOSCOW (UPI)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev said in a speech released today that an East-West summit meeting "may apparently" take place this autumn or winter.

Khrushchev made his remarks Tuesday in Vladivostok where he stopped on his way back from a Peiping meeting with Communist Chinese leaders.

According to the official Soviet News Agency Tass, Khrushchev said "the summit meeting which may apparently be called this autumn or winter, will continue the exchange of views on problems agitating the peoples."

"Everything must be done to establish lasting peace," the Soviet premier said.

STILL BEYOND MOON

Has Lunik Gone Astray?

MOSCOW (AP)—Russia's Lunik soared 78,750 miles beyond the moon today and is expected to keep going three more days before starting its return toward earth, Tass reported tonight.

WOUNDED

Premier Abdel Karim Kassem of Iraq was shot and slightly wounded by a would-be assassin today, according to a report on the Baghdad radio heard in London. His condition was reported as "good." The report said the attempt on Kassem's life came while he was driving through a Baghdad street. He was hit in shoulder.

300 Rescued As Flames Sweep Pier

SOUTHEAST, Eng. (AP)—River boats tonight picked up nearly 300 terrified vacationers marooned by fire on the world's longest pier.

The holiday-makers were trapped at the pier head when flames swept through a wooden dance pavilion near the shore.

Many in bright summer clothes escaped by climbing down the pier stanchions to waiting boats.

For 90 minutes seven fire brigades pumped seawater on to the leaping flames, eventually getting them under control. The fire also blazed through the pier's miniature railway depot and the stores beneath it.

Southeast Pier is 1½ miles long and the entertainment hub of this resort standing on the estuary of the Thames.

Earlier, Russian announcements had given the impression that Lunik III had completed its turn around the moon and was heading back to earth.

This raised some speculation that the rocket might overshoot its predicted orbit.

Today, the official Soviet news agency said the instrument-crammed satellite is expected to reach a maximum distance of 291,870 miles from the earth before turning back.

"Thereafter the interplanetary station will begin moving toward the earth and will pass by our planet on Oct. 13, moving from north to south," the announcement said.

The shortest distance from the earth's surface will be about 40,000 kilometres (24,840 miles).

There was still no word on what the flying laboratory observed on the face of the moon never seen by man.

A Soviet announcement Tuesday night said the cosmic rocket reached a point 4,349 miles from the moon at 6:16 a.m. PST Tuesday and then "kept its movement, turning around the moon."

By noon, the announcement continued, the rocket was 9,320 miles from the moon's surface and continuing "on its pre-determined orbit." This was supposed to take it on around the moon and into a long oval orbit around the earth.

At that time, the Russians said, the Lunik was 230,925 miles from the earth, over the Atlantic.

The apparatus of the solar batteries and the chemical sources for supplying energy are functioning normally, the announcement added.

Russian scientists kept check on the Lunik with an intricate system of radio listening posts and computing centres.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

O Thou in Whom we live and move and have our being, Who hast taught us that we are most truly free when we lose our wills in Thine, help us to gain this liberty by surrender unto Thee. We offer and present unto Thee our souls and our bodies, our thoughts and our desires, our words and our deeds, to be a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto Thee, which is our reasonable service; through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

WHAT WELL-FED YANK SHOULD KNOW

Our Diet: Spuds and Syrup

EDMONTON (CP)—Canada's basic diet is "potatoes, home-made bread and maple syrup," according to a current United States publication now on sale in Canadian bookstores.

For westerners, it adds wild game, including bear and venison, as an "important part" of daily fare.

Postmaster-General William Hamilton quoted from the paper-back edition of Round-the-World Cookbook by Myra Waldo, published in 1957, in an address to the Canadian Tourist Association annual meeting.

Mr. Hamilton said it contained this description of Canadian food habits:

"The basic items of Canadian diet are few and simple: Potatoes, home-made bread and maple syrup."

"Canadians are exceedingly fond of potatoes, and they eat enormous quantities of them prepared in countless ways. . . .

"The national sweet tooth inclines toward maple syrup and large amounts of it are used for sweetening practically everything."

"But there is much more to Canadian food: Such specialties as the famous Canadian pea soup, the locally made cheeses and ales, tourtiere meat pie, and grandperes, a maple syrup dessert."

"In the western part of the nation, game, such as venison, rabbit, bear, duck and geese, plays an important part in the diet."

Mr. Hamilton said he hopes that by 1967 private and public co-operation will have developed Canada's tourist industry so well that Americans will recognize the quotation as "more than slightly out of date."

LANZA ONLY 38

'Golden Voice' Dies

(Times News Services)
ROME — Tenor Mario Lanza, the one-time piano mover who became one of the greatest singing stars in movie history, died of a heart attack here today.

He was 38. For some time his heart had been giving him trouble, but only close friends knew of the ailment. Recently his condition had been complicated by phlebitis—blood clots in the leg.

Lanza became famous for his starring role in the motion picture The Great Caruso, which grossed one of the highest amounts of any musical. Born in Philadelphia, his real name was Alfredo Arnold Cocozza. He later adopted his mother's name of Lanza for professional use.

'GREATEST VOICE'

The late Italian conductor Arturo Toscanini once said that Lanza possessed "the greatest voice of the 20th century."

Lanza two years ago undertook a new movie career in Europe after several years of controversial activity in the United States.

After vaulting to fame with The Great Caruso, he earned $1,000,000 in one year, more than half of it in phonograph records. In 1952 he was about the hottest thing in U.S. show business.

Two years later he was in debt to the U.S. government and, having a hard time finding bookings, one of the reasons was that he got too fat for romantic parts.

"He was a sick man," his friend Irving Aronson said of the period in which Lanza ballooned in size, failed to fill a Las Vegas engagement and was accused of breaking a Hollywood movie contract.

After coming to Rome, and bringing his weight down to 184 pounds from 240, Lanza said he had recovered from an "unhappy episode."

He went on to make several pictures here, including The Seven Hills of Rome.

There had been years in which he worked hard, played hard and sang every song as though it would be his last. Of his voice he often said:

"It is a gift of God. I cannot take credit for it; it merely passes through me."

'Told to Lie' in Probe Of Rigged Quiz Show

WASHINGTON (AP)—A public relations consultant for producers of the TV quiz program Twenty-One testified today the show was rigged and said he was advised to lie to investigators.

Alfred Davis said a lawyer advised his public relations firm not to tell the truth to New York authorities investigating charges that contestants were given questions and answers in advance.

Davis identified the lawyer as Edwin Slote of New York. In effect, Davis said his firm and Barry and Enright Incorporated, owners of the quiz program, had deceived the National Broadcasting Company by not telling it the truth.

NBC was the network that carried Twenty-One, one of the biggest quiz shows until it collapsed last year after charges it was rigged.

Dame Fortune Smiled on Lopez

Times Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES—The sun has always been kind to the citizens of Los Angeles county.

It endows them richly with oranges and avocados, makes patio swimming pools worth while and keeps their movie stars photogenically tanned all year round.

As if that wasn't enough, Old Sol almost made their beloved Dodgers baseball champions of the world Tuesday afternoon and the fact that the Dodgers Tuesday night were flying high toward Chicago instead of flying high on champagne is a tribute to the skill and courage of the White Sox from Chicago's south side.

Although the go-go Sox weren't trying to go anywhere against Johnny Roseboro's arm and discarded white stockings for the black ones they used during the regular season, the Los Angeles fans finally saw the White Sox play like the White Sox.

Another record crowd of baseball addicts, this time the total was 92,706, crowded into huge Memorial Coliseum, hoping to see the Dodgers nail down California's first world series crown.

Instead they marvelled at the Sox, maestros of defence and responding like perfect puppets when Al Lopez pulled the managerial strings, performed in the fashion which made them famous, clipping the Dodgers, 10, to force the best-of-seven classic to a sixth game.

'GOING TO WIN' SOX WAR CRY

CHICAGO (AP)—The underdog Chicago White Sox, their flagging hopes revived, flew back home today for a last-ditch stand against Los Angeles Dodgers for baseball's biggest prize.

"We're going to win this thing now," Manager Al Lopez boomed after his American League champions defeated the Dodgers 1-0 in Los Angeles Tuesday.

Thus this baseball wacky city was denied a spontaneous victory celebration. If it finally stages such festivities they could be more subdued since the Dodgers, now holding a 3-2 series lead, must finish up the current classic in Chicago's Comiskey Park, starting Thursday.

The Hollywood movie factories are not far from the Coliseum and it might have been suspected that a film script-writer had conjured up the action in the third and fourth

TOPICS OF THE DAY

History will be repeating itself in New Westminster Thursday when the British Columbia cabinet holds an out-of-capital meeting there.

"It will be the first time the cabinet has met at New Westminster since it was the capital of B.C.," Premier Bennett noted this morning. The Royal City was the capital 100 years ago, soon after it was named by Queen Victoria, and before Vancouver Island joined the mainland colony.

J. Redfern was elected president of the Canadian Pacific Railway social club at its annual meeting this week.

S. Peden was elected vice-president and Mrs. D. Wilson secretary.

Doris May Norman, Sidney, was fined $250 and her licence was suspended when she pleaded guilty in Saanich police court Tuesday to a charge of driving while impaired by alcohol.

Police arrested her after her car hit a pole, causing damage but no injury.

Robert Watson, no fixed address, elected trial by County Court judge when he was charged in city police court today with breaking, entering and theft of a coat from Dick's Ladies' Ready-to-Wear, 1324 Douglas, Tuesday night.

Magistrate William Ostler remanded the accused to Oct. 15 for preliminary hearing.

Police said a plate glass door pane was smashed and a woman's overcoat valued at more than $25 was taken from a rack inside the store.

Watson was arrested shortly after on Broad Street.

Maria Van der Walle, 4021 Holland, was placed on $250 bond to keep the peace for six months when she pleaded guilty in Saanich police court Tuesday to the common assault of Gladys Quainton, 4065 Holland.

James John Warwick, 1225 Rudlin, pleaded guilty in Saanich police court Tuesday to a charge of drinking beer in a car on Lochside and was fined $50.

Victoria resident Emilio Fossa, 2520 Rock Bay, was fined $50 in Saanich police court Tuesday for shooting within the municipality.

Police stopped him on Stevens Road while investigating the sound of rifle fire. In his car they found a .303 rifle and .22 semi-automatic rifle.

"I tried both guns out," Fossa told police. He said he did not know there was a law against it.

Colwood volunteer firemen were called to the home of Ron Evans, 3360 Painter, at noon today when a slash fire started to jump its bounds. It was brought under control without property damage within a few minutes.

Two city businessmen were fined a total of $60 in city police court today when they pleaded guilty to counts of failing to file returns under the Social Services Tax Act.

Lawrence C. Wyatt, of Overseas Cycles, 624 Fisgard, was fined $10 each on four counts of failing to file for the period April-July and was ordered to pay $86.54 in tax arrears.

Green's ANR Ltd., 862 Balmoral, was fined $10 each on two counts.

Eight wrist watches valued at $91.40 were stolen from a showcase at Horseshoe Newsstand, 1231 Government, between 4 and 6 p.m. Tuesday, city police were told at 6.40 p.m.

The watches were valued at from $9.50 to $14.95 each.

Bawdy House Keeper Skips $500 Bail

A warrant for the arrest of a Victoria woman charged with keeping a bawdy house was issued in city police court Tuesday to the common assault of Gladys Quainton, 4065 Holland.

Magistrate William Ostler ordered the bail money forfeited.

James Proudfoot, counsel for the accused Dawn Adams, formerly of 427 Linden, said he "understood she took off for a city down east."

Knowing his client had left the city, Mr. Proudfoot said he went to the police charge office Tuesday to recover the bail, which although not his money, was put up in his name.

He said he offered a receipt in his name, but the desk sergeant refused to comply with his request. Mr. Proudfoot said the practice of putting up bail in the name of counsel is common and accepted by the Law Society as a protection for counsel's fee.

Prosecutor T. P. O'Grady said "counsel takes his chances on his client showing up," even though the accused's money is in the lawyer's name.

The magistrate said he was sympathetic to Mr. Proudfoot, but he forfeited under provision of the Criminal Code and ordered the warrant for arrest.

CHEST DRIVE TOTAL HITS $70,154

Total receipts in the Greater Victoria Community Chest campaign reached $70,154 at 1 p.m. today.

It is expected to hit $75,000 Thursday when a third light will be lit on the big Red Feather outside the Bank of Montreal at Yates and Douglas.

There are 13 lights in all. When all have been lit the $325,000 objective will have been reached.

PGE BOND SALE COST $375,000

Cost of marketing $30,000. In Pacific Great Eastern Railway bonds was estimated today at between $350,000 and $400,000.

Premier Bennett announced this morning the third $10,000, 000 issue of the 5 per cent bonds was oversubscribed prior to closing of sales at 3 p.m.

The premier said he could not yet give complete totals but the sale is over the $30,000,000 mark. He said the commission paid to bond dealers and other distributors was three-quarters of 1 per cent and the cost of advertising and other minor expenses, was less than half of 1 per cent.

One and a quarter per cent of $30,000,000 would amount to $375,000.

West Coast Shipbuilders' Cause Pushed

Premier Bennett said today he will renew a request for a differential for B.C. shipbuilders bidding on federal ship contracts, when he goes to Ottawa next Tuesday.

He reviewed the case of B.C. shipyards which pay higher wages than in the east and higher freight rates. The federal government should take this into consideration and permit a differential to be applied to any bids, when B.C. yards are competing with eastern yards, he said.

"The federal government gets more income tax from the $2.87 an hour paid here than from the $1 an hour paid at some shipyards in the east," said the premier. He said he felt B.C. shipyards were being "short-changed."

The premier said he has already taken this question up at Ottawa "a dozen times," but he will do it again next week. He will attend a meeting of provincial and federal finance ministers Oct. 15.

Mother on Stand At Trial of Son Accused in Shooting

A Victoria widow gave evidence in Assize Court here today in the trial of her 17-year-old son, charged with murdering the man she lived with.

Mrs. Alice Olive Webber, now residing at 421 Durban, said before the man was shot she repeatedly told her son: "He is going to kill me."

The son, Ronald William Webber, a high school boy, is charged with murdering James C. Luske, 55, in his mother's home at 1417 Camosun Street on the evening of May 23 last after Luske allegedly broke into a locked bedroom.

The shot which killed Luske is said to have been fired from a .22 rifle. Mrs. Webber told the court she thought this was the rifle she had given her son as a birthday present.

An attractive, brown-eyed woman, Mrs. Webber said she and her son had locked themselves in his bedroom when Luske broke down the door and lurched into the room.

He had been drinking and was shouting at the top of his voice.

FRIGHTENED

"I was so frightened I hardly remember just what happened," the widow said. "I was sitting on one of the beds when I saw the door breaking down... Jim (Luske) had got just inside the door when I heard a shot and he fell to the floor."

"Where did the shot come from?" asked Crown prosecutor Robert A. Wootton. "I don't know, I was watching Jim all the time," Mrs. Webber replied.

"What happened then?"

CALLED POLICE

"Ronald turned on one of the lights and told me to go and phone the police. I went out and phoned them."

Earlier, three city policemen told of examining the body of Luske in the bedroom. Each felt his pulse and found he was dead.

Mrs. Webber said she had known Luske about 25 years. He had lived at her house on Camosun for two years before his death.

"What was the relationship between you?" asked Mr. Wootton.

"He was living with me as my husband and had done so for about two months," Mrs. Webber answered.

DRANK BEER

On the day of the shooting she said they went shopping, drove around the city and then drank some beer at the Army and Navy Club. She had about four beers, but Luske drank more.

On the way home Luske began arguing with her about her son (the accused) who lived with them at the house on Camosun. She said the accused was born April 30, 1942. His father was dead.

Back at the house Luske began assaulting her. He struck

By HUMPHRY DAVY

One of the most crucial municipal elections in the history of Saanich is shaping for December.

The election will centre around the contest for reeveship between Reeve George Chatterton and Coun. Joseph Casey, a former reeve, who are diametrically opposed in policies for running the sprawling municipality.

There is no compromising between the two men who are determined to fight a "do or die" election battle over widely divergent policies.

The issues involved has already caused a rift among council members.

Some of the "old guard" councillors who once supported Coun. Casey, have thrown in their lot with Reeve Chatterton.

The election results—to be decided by some 24,000 voters—will have far reaching effects on the future development of the municipality.

Reeve Chatterton's policies initiated during the past year, call for controlled development of the municipality, planning ahead for parks and schools.

It is the reeve's contention that it is not right for taxpayers to have to subsidize housing developments and to be responsible for sewer and sanitary problems caused by irresponsible land developers.

SPECULATORS

He struck a blow at land speculators when he introduced regulations requiring them to take soil tests of the land they planned to develop. This is to see if the soil is suitable for septic tank disposal systems.

The practice, he claims, is protecting prospective homeowners buying "troublesome" property. And the municipality is saved from having to correct sanitary problems caused by subdivisions established in unsuitable areas.

Coun. Casey stands for a minimum of control in development and town planning and zoning. He feels the controls Reeve Chatterton favors are "stunting the growth of the municipality."

But his main argument against controlled development is that it is interfering with the rights of the individual.

Coun. Casey is opposed to the system of submitting most planning matters to planning or engineering experts. He believes only council should have the say in deciding what is right or wrong.

MONEY WASTE

It is his opinion that town and community planning is a waste of taxpayers' money, and advocates a policy of dealing with problems as they arise.

Coun. Casey is strongly supported by Coun. Leslie Passmore.

The growing rift in council was evident at a recent lands and planning committee when Coun. George Austin, who formerly supported Mr. Casey, defended the reeve's policies.

Coun. Ainslee Worthington, at times luke warm to the reeve's new deal, also showed signs of opposing the views of Mr. Casey.

Coun. Stanley Murphy and Harold Todd support the new policies.

It started when Couns. Passmore and Casey made a concerted attempt to crack the new subdivision control bylaw initiated to prevent costly sprawl development and to curb school costs.

A recommendation from town planner Tony Parr urging council not to allow the establishment of a large subdivision in a rural area (Halliburton Ridge Road) until the school board had acquired property in the district for school use, provided the necessary fireworks.

Mr. Parr's recommendation was in accordance with the bylaw which does not permit the establishment of large subdivisions outside a three-quarter-mile radius from an elementary school, until school board property is acquired in the rural area to be developed.

SCHOOL USE

Purpose of the legislation is to give the school board a chance to buy property before it is all developed for housing, leaving the board with only unwanted land for school use.

In the past the lack of planning for schools has proved costly for ratepayers. They have had to pay for servicing and improving undesirable land for school use. The board on one occasion had to build a school on property which flooded every year.

Couns. Casey and Passmore argued that rejection of the subdivision application was interfering with the rights of an individual to do what he wanted with his land.

The committee refused to tamper with the bylaw after comptroller-treasurer John Tribe warned councillors that "public monies" might be involved if they permitted sprawl development.

The two dissenting councillors made another attempt to block a proposed new bylaw to be submitted to council next week which will prevent the building of two houses on one lot. This is to ensure proper planning of subdivisions and to protect the property values of householders.

Coun. Casey claimed there was little use in planning subdivisions.

"What is the use of planning," he argued, "Vancouver Island may not exist in ten years' time."

Rites Saturday For Masonic Lodge Officer

Gerald George Green, secretary of the Britannia Lodge AF & AM for several years and a former district deputy grand master of the Masonic Lodge, died here Tuesday. He was 67.

A member for many years of Fairfield United Church, Mr. Green served as chairman of the board of stewards for 14 years, and was a former Sunday school superintendent.

In the First World War he served with the Royal Flying Corps.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Geoffrey P. (Freda) Mason, 5227 Belmont Ave.; three grandchildren; two sisters, Miss Kate Green, Victoria, and Mrs. Emmie Boyle, England; eight brothers, Paul L. F. Stanley, Harold H. and L. F. Stanley, all in Victoria, and three others, Seattle, Herbert T. Australia, and Raymond C., England.

Billion Dollar Tourist Industry Seen Here

British Columbia's tourist industry will bring in a gross revenue of over $1,000,000,000 a year within a decade Premier Bennett estimated today. He said it would take over as the leading industry of the province.

He was commenting on the value to the province of the proposed fast ferry service from Sidney to Tsawwassen.

He said he did not intend to press the federal government for a subsidy although the ferries would be part of the national highway system. He noted too that under terms of confederation, the federal government was to maintain certain shipping connections with Vancouver Island.

He said he has asked without result for federal subsidies to the Pacific Great Eastern Railway extensions, and wouldn't bother trying with respect to the ferries.

But he criticized the government's willingness to pay subsidies for shipping, waterways and wheat in other parts of Canada. "They just take money from B.C. ... we get no help from Ottawa at all."

ASK The TIMES

Q. Please let me know the origin of the Maltese Cross.
A. The cross in one form or another appears on the flags and ensigns of many Christian countries. The cross has also been adopted by many orders of knighthood, and one of the best known is the cross of the Knights of Malta. It is a white cross of eight points on a black background.

"Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times," Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily. All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealers."

AN ABANDONED STATION WAGON reported stolen overnight from Nanaimo was spotted deep in brush off Lover's Lane, Beacon Hill Park, by a public works employee this morning. City police said the vehicle was run into a ditch as far off the road as it could be driven, and ordered it towed to the police yard and held for fingerprints by the RCMP.

'LIGHT' CAST ON SPACE MYSTERY

Duncan's Flying Saucers Credited to Vancouver

A Duncan woman member of the war-born Ground Observer Corps today gave an answer to the recent flying saucer sighting reports in the Cowichan district.

But Miss F. M. Draper, Sharnan Road, doesn't think her theory will be accepted, generally because it is too simple.

"Most people just don't want a logical explanation of this sort of thing," Miss Draper feels.

There is no doubt in her mind, though, that the "mysterious objects" a half dozen or more people in Duncan and southern Vancouver Island areas have reported seeing in the skies during evening hours in the last week are nothing more than the reflection of lights from the city of Vancouver.

Most of the sightings were reported a week ago tonight.

On that evening, Miss Draper scanned the skies for over two hours from her home which overlooks the entire Cowichan Valley. Flying saucers? Nonsense!

Miss Draper, who has been a Ground Observer Corps spotter for six years, saw lights in the sky that night in the general northeasterly area the "saucers" were reported flying about, and "I am sure they were nothing but reflections."

"Climatic conditions were such that the reflections were unusual to the 'uneducated eye.'"

Further to her explanation, Miss Draper said she understood a new parking lot in Vancouver is equipped with several searchlights. "And there definitely were searchlight spots in the sky on this particular occasion. They followed a general pattern, moving back and forth in the glow of light reflections off the clouds."

The observer said she had seen reflections from the mass of downtown Vancouver lighting on several other occasions.

BEST BET—CAP STADIUM

STILL BEYOND MOON

Has Lunik Gone Astray?

MOSCOW (AP) — Russia's Lunik soared 78,750 miles beyond the moon today and is expected to keep going three more days before starting its return toward earth, Tass reported tonight.

Earlier, Russian announcements had given the impression that Lunik III had completed its turn around the moon and was heading back to earth.

This raised some speculation that the rocket might overshoot its predicted orbit.

Today, the official Soviet news agency said the instrument-crammed satellite is expected to reach a maximum distance of 291,870 miles from the earth before turning back.

Thereafter the interplanetary station will begin moving toward the earth and will pass by our planet on Oct. 18, the announcement said.

The shortest distance from the earth's surface will be about 40,000 kilometres (24,840 miles).

Tuesday night said the cosmic rocket reached a point 4,319 miles from the moon at 6.15 a.m. PST Tuesday and then "kept its movement turning around the moon."

By noon, the announcement continued, the rocket was 9,320 miles from the moon's surface and continuing "on its pre-determined orbit."

This was supposed to take it on around the moon and into a long oval orbit around the earth.

At that time, the Russians said, the Lunik was 230,925 miles from the earth, over the Atlantic.

The apparatus of the solar batteries and the chemical sources for supplying energy are functioning normally, the announcement added.

Russian scientists kept check on the Lunik with an intricate system of radio listening posts and computing centres.

BULLETINS

B.C. Labor To Back CCF

VANCOUVER (CP) — Full support of the CCF party in the next B.C. election was pledged today by the B.C. Federation of Labor (CLC).

Delegates at the federation's annual convention here approved by a substantial margin a committee recommendation pledging support, including financial, to the CCF in a provincial election expected by the CCF early next year.

Empire Medal For Island RCMP

OTTAWA—RCMP Constable Hugh Bower, now in charge of Shawanigan Lake detachment on Vancouver Island, today was awarded the British Empire Medal for helping to rescue a man buried in a quarry slide at Windermere in 1955.

The award, along with three other RCMP medals, was announced here by Commissioner C. E. Rivett-Carnae.

Two Star Leafs Sign Contracts

TORONTO (CP) — Bob Pulford and Ron Stewart signed contracts with Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League today, ending lengthy holdouts just before the start of the 1959 season.

300 Rescued As Flames Sweep Pier

SOUTHEAST, Eng. (AP) — River boats tonight picked up nearly 300 terrified vacationers marooned by fire on the world's longest pier.

The holiday-makers were trapped at the pier head when flames swept through a wooden dance pavilion near the shore.

Many in bright summer clothes escaped by climbing down the pier stanchions to waiting boats.

For 90 minutes seven fire brigades pumped seawater on to the leaping flames, eventually getting them under control. The fire also blazed through the pier's miniature railway depot and the stores beneath it.

Southeast Pier is 1½ miles long and the entertainment hub of this resort standing on the estuary of the Thames.

WOUNDED

Premier Abdel Karim Kassem of Iraq was shot and slightly wounded by a would-be assassin today, according to a report on the Baghdad radio heard in London. His condition was reported as "good."

The report said the attempt on Kassem's life came while he was driving through a Baghdad street. He was hit in shoulder.

ON U.K. ELECTION EVE

Mac Remains Slight Choice

LONDON (AP) — Britain's political parties conducted door-to-door election-eve canvasses today in a final effort to carry the country's huge bloc of uncommitted voters.

The latest public opinion poll showed 8½ per cent of the voters in 50 key districts in the "don't know" or "won't tell" column.

Even the leaders of the two major parties were cagey about predicting the results of Thursday's election.

TOBY LEAD

Prime Minister Macmillan's Conservative party, seeking a third term in control of the government, could draw encouragement from the latest Daily Telegraph poll, which gave it a 2½ per cent lead over Labor in 50 key constituencies.

According to the poll, the Conservatives can bank on support from 42½ per cent of the electorate, while Labor has 40 per cent sewed up.

Other recent polls have shown the two main parties racing neck-and-neck with up to one-fifth of those questioned among the "don't knows."

TV Show Rigged Probe Informed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A public relations consultant for producers of the TV quiz program Twenty-One testified today the show was rigged and said he was advised to lie to investigators.

Alfred Davis said a lawyer advised his public relations firm not to tell the truth to New York authorities investigating charges that contestants were given questions and answers in advance.

Davis identified the lawyer as Edwin Slatoff of New York. In effect, Davis said his firm and Barry and Enright Incorporated, owners of the quiz program, had deceived the National Broadcasting Company by not telling it the truth. NBC was the network that carried Twenty-One, one of the biggest quiz shows until it collapsed last year after charges it was rigged.

Davis was the first witness on the second day of an inquiry by the House of Representatives legislative oversight subcommittee into quiz show scandals.

Under questioning, Davis said Slatoff had advised him to get out of town after authorities began looking into the charges against the program.

"Where did he advise you to go," asked Robert W. Lishman, subcommittee counsel.

"As far away as possible," Davis replied.

Called as the windup witness on Twenty-One was Richard Jackman, a former contestant who is said to have told a New York grand jury the show was crooked. Jackman is an organizer for the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union.

The House subcommittee on legislative oversight then planned to turn its spotlight on another TV quiz — Datto, the first of the shows to collapse under fraud charges. This started a chain of events that brought to an end the era of huge money prizes and strained, sweating faces peering out of isolation booths.

DOUBLECROSS

The story of a contestant's doublecross was unfolded Tuesday by James Snodgrass, a 37-year-old New York artist. He testified that he brought Twenty-One's producers to the verge of panic by giving the correct answer to a question he said they told him to pass.

When the show ended, Snodgrass said, producer Albert Freedman "came to my dressing room and said I had ruined him." Snodgrass wound up with $4,000.

Echoing testimony by Herbert Stempel, another former contestant, Snodgrass said he had been supplied in advance with questions and answers and even coached on dress, mannerisms and gestures.

MARIO LANZA

LANZA ONLY 38

'Golden Voice' Dies

(Times News Services) ROME — Tenor Mario Lanza, the one-time piano mover who became one of the greatest singing stars in movie history, died of a heart attack here today.

He was 38. For some time his heart had been giving him trouble, but only close friends knew of the ailment. Recently his condition had been complicated by phlebitis—blood clots in the leg.

Lanza became famous for his starring role in the motion picture The Great Caruso, which grossed one of the highest amounts of any musical.

'GREATEST VOICE'

The late Italian conductor Arturo Toscanini once said that Lanza possessed "the greatest voice of the 20th century."

Lanza two years ago undertook a new movie career in

Dame Fortune Smiled on Lopez

Old Sol almost made their beloved Dodgers baseball champions of the world Tuesday afternoon and the fact that the Dodgers Tuesday night were flying high toward Chicago instead of flying high on champagne is a tribute to the skill and courage of the White Sox from Chicago's south side.

Although the go-go Sox weren't trying to go anywhere against Johnny Roseboro's arm and discarded white stockings for the black ones they used during the regular season, the Los Angeles fans finally saw the White Sox play like the White Sox.

Another record crowd of baseball addicts, this time the total was 92,706, crowded into huge Memorial Coliseum, hoping to see the Dodgers land down California's first world series crown.

Instead they marvelled as the Sox, maestros of defence and responding like perfect puppets when Al Lopez pulled the managerial strings, performed in the fashion which made them famous, clipping the Dodgers, 1-0, to force the best-of-seven classic to a sixth game.

Thus this baseball wacky city was denied a spontaneous victory celebration. If it finally stages such festivities they could be more subdued since the Dodgers, now holding a 3-2 series lead, must finish up the current classic in Chicago's Comiskey Park, starting Thursday.

The Hollywood movie factories are not far from the Coliseum and it might have been suspected that a film script-writer had conjured up the action in the third and fourth

'GOING TO WIN' SOX WAR CRY

CHICAGO (AP) — The underdog Chicago White Sox, their flagging hopes revived, flew back home today for a last ditch stand against Los Angeles Dodgers for baseball's biggest prize.

"We're going to win this thing now," Manager Al Lopez boomed after his American League champions defeated the Dodgers 1-0 in Los Angeles Tuesday.

Our Diet: Spuds and Syrup

EDMONTON (CP) — Canada's basic diet is "potatoes, home-made bread and maple syrup," according to a current United States publication now on sale in Canadian bookstores.

For westerners, it adds wild game, including bear and venison, as an "important part" of daily fare.

Postmaster General William Hamilton quoted from the paper-back edition of Rounds the World Cookbook by Mrs. Waldo, published in 1952, in an address to the Canadian Tourist Association annual meeting.

Mr. Hamilton said it contained this description of Canadian food habits: "The basic items of Canadian diet are few and simple: Potatoes, home-made bread and maple syrup."

"Canadians are exceedingly fond of potatoes, and they eat enormous quantities of them prepared in countless ways."

"The national sweet tooth inclines toward maple syrup and large amounts of it are used for sweetening practically everything."

"But there is much more to Canadian food: Such specialties as the famous Canadian pea soup, the locally made cheeses and ales, tourtiere meat pie, and grand-peres, a maple syrup dessert."

In the western part of the nation, game, such as venison, rabbit, bear, duck and geese, plays an important part in the diet."

Mr. Hamilton said he hopes that by 1967 private and public co-operation will have developed Canada's tourist industry so well that Americans will recognize the quotation as "more than slightly out of date."

... MACMILLAN

Britain has 35,400,000 eligible voters.

In 1955 the Conservatives won a 52-seat majority in the 630-seat House of Commons. The Liberals held six seats.

"The election is so delicately poised that either the Conservatives or Labor could win," said The Times. "And the side that falls to vote at full strength will almost certainly lose."

The major parties wound up their campaigns on the airwaves Tuesday night as party leaders took to radio and television in a last-minute sales pitch.

Macmillan told viewers on Britain's two television channels they were "trustees" and not "owners" of the nation's destiny.

He spoke of Conservative gains—a solvent nation, 1,000,000 more people working today than in 1951, and old-age pensions that kept pace with rising living costs.

"We have got rid of socialism," he said. "Don't let it come back. Let us go right ahead for advancement all along the line over the next five years."

CAN AFFORD MORE

Labor leader Hugh Gaitskell in a radio address told voters Britain could well afford higher old-age pensions and a bigger investment in education.

"With prosperity, we can really afford this cost," he said. "In any great industrial nation like ours, the wealth of the country should be growing year by year."

"Can we really tolerate going on as we have been with other countries racing ahead with faster economic development and Britain left behind?"

Despite the wariness of party chiefs and the poll-takers, the Conservatives today were the hottest election betting favorites since the war.

One big bookmaker would offer only 4 to 11 against a Conservative victory, meaning the better had to put up $11 to possibly win $4. Tuesday the price was 4 to 10.

The odds against the Labor party went up from 2 to 1 to 9 to 4.

Confidence Vote

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle and his cabinet today authorized Premier Michel Debre to call for a vote of confidence in parliament on De Gaulle's Algeria policy.

Canada Signs Atomic Pacts With Euratom

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada Tuesday signed two agreements in Brussels with the European Atomic Agency, known as Euratom, in the hope of creating markets for Canadian-developed atomic power plants and Canadian uranium.

The agreements for co-operation in peaceful uses of atomic energy provide for each party to appropriate $5,000,000 over a five-year period for joint research. Results of the joint research will be shared.

An outline agreement, signed by Sydney D. Pierce, Canadian ambassador to Belgium, and the commission of Euratom, lays down conditions under which the two parties ensure exchanges of information, materials and equipment between Canadian and European individuals and corporations.

A technical agreement, signed by J. L. Gray, president of Atomic Energy of Canada Limited, and the commission of Euratom, provides for joint research in the field of power reactors using natural uranium as a fuel and heavy water as the agent to remove heat from the reactor and boil ordinary water to generate steam and drive electric generators.

FINAL RESULTS KNOWN FRIDAY

LONDON (CP) — Polls close at 9 p.m. GMT (1 p.m. PST) Thursday in Britain's general election.

The final results from about 350 of the 600 constituencies will be known by 8 p.m. PST.

In rural districts where it takes longer to get the ballot boxes to the central counting place, tabulation of the votes begins Friday at 10 a.m. and continues until 5 p.m.

Europe after several years of controversial activity in the United States.

After vaulting to fame with The Great Caruso, he earned $1,100,000 in one year, more than half of it in phonograph records. In 1952 he was about the hottest thing in U.S. show business.

Two years later he was in debt to the U.S. government and having a hard time finding bookings. One of the reasons was that he got too fat for romantic parts.

"He was a sick man," his friend Irving Aronson said of the period in which Lanza ballooned in size, failed to fill a Las Vegas engagement and was accused of breaking a Hollywood movie contract.

After coming to Rome, and bringing his weight down to 184 pounds from 240, Lanza said he had recovered from an "unhappy episode."

He went on to make several pictures here, including The Seven Hills of Rome.

There had been years in which he worked hard, played hard and sang every song as though it would be his last. Of his voice he often said:

"It is a gift of God. I cannot take credit for it; it merely passes through me."

$10,000 SPREE

'Carte Blanche' Across America

NEW YORK (AP) — A young man doesn't need money to travel, dress well and live in the best hotels.

A credit card will do it all. Police said 19-year-old Joseph Robert Miraglia of Manhattan told them Tuesday night he used credit cards to spend about $10,000 in five weeks.

The credit cards took him to Las Vegas, Montreal, Miami and Havana. They bought plane tickets, nice clothing, plush hotel suites, champagne and other luxuries.

Unfortunately, the little cards didn't supply pocket money. Miraglia was booked on a charge of fraud in writing a phony $150 cheque.

Miraglia said he made $55 a week as a clerk when he got interested in credit cards last August.

Police said he gave them this account of his activities:

He had a small account in a Chase Manhattan Bank and he first got a credit card from that bank.

Then he saw in a store window an invitation to apply for a "carte blanche" credit card.

After receiving the card, he took an expensive suite in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, ordered champagne and had breakfast in bed.

Later he went to Montreal. He met a girl there and bought her a $600 fur stole. The credit card did it again.

BIRTH CONTROL POLICY RAPPED

VATICAN CITY (Reuters) — Unofficial Vatican circles today expressed "regret" at reports from Geneva that a commission of the World Council of Churches, which groups Protestants and Orthodox, had decided that contraception was morally permissible.

The Roman Catholic Church has repeatedly declared all forms of "artificial contraception" immoral, admitting the use of the "safe period" in the woman "if justified by grave reasons" as the only licit form of birth control besides total abstinence.

2 Dead, 4 Seriously Hurt As Cars In Head-On Crash

(From CP Dispatches)

Dead are Leo Miner, 20, Cherryville, B.C., and Robert Hopp, 71, Nakusp, B.C. Both died in hospital here Tuesday.

In hospital in critical condition was Mrs. Ida Hopp, 68, Nakusp; while Mr. and Mrs. Henry Leslie Miller, Nakusp, and Edward Miner, 19, Cherryville, were reported in serious condition.

Police said the Miller brothers were riding in a light truck that was involved in a collision with a car driven by Robert Hopp.

CRASH KILLS WOMAN

PRINCE GEORGE — One woman is dead and three men injured, two critically, in a car-panel truck collision Tuesday night four miles south of here on Highway 97.

Names of the victims were not immediately available. Both drivers were reported in critical condition while a male passenger in the car was reported in fair condition.

BCE WON'T CUT RATE

DOCTOR BUS DRIVER

LYTTON — A Greyhound bus driver turned doctor Monday night to deliver a baby girl in the back of his bus.

Bus driver Ron Bowman said a woman passenger got on the bus at Chilliwack. At Shaw Springs, between Lytton and Spences Bridge, she complained of pains.

Bowman stopped the bus and carried the woman to a rear seat, where the baby was born.

GEM CHARGES LAID

VANCOUVER — Two Vancouver men were to appear in court here today following the recovery Monday of nearly $20,000 worth of jewelry stolen from a Kelowna store.

Janos Toth, 23, and William Papp, 30, are charged with possession of stolen goods. They were arrested after police received a tip that someone was looking for a market for stolen jewelry.

Spasmodic power failures were reported throughout North Vancouver and West Vancouver.

There were no reports of damage or injury.

HUNTER FOUND

QUESNEL, B.C. — A 77-year-old Winlock, Wash., hunter, lost for three days in bush country near here, was found Tuesday.

J. H. England was discovered by a search party 10 miles east of Lac la Hache in the 5 p.m. rush-hour traffic. Cariboo.
